

Feerick Loses License for 1-Year Period

Personal Embalming, but Not Undertaking, Right Is Suspended

Madison—The state board of health announced today that the embalmers' license of Ralph Feerick, Milwaukee undertaker, has been revoked for one year on the ground that he was not diligent in accepting a certificate for Mrs. Anne Boddy, 24, who died in Milwaukee in February, 1931, following an illegal operation.

The board absolved Feerick of any "dishonesty or bad faith" and said it was satisfied that he had no actual knowledge as to the cause of the woman's death but found him guilty of negligence in the handling of the death certificate.

Mrs. Boddy died Feb. 3, 1931, in a private apartment house on N. Jackson-st. in Milwaukee. Dr. Edward Werner, Oshkosh physician, is serving a term of four to seven years at Waupun for performing the operation that caused her death. The death certificate, which Feerick testified he accepted from Dr. R. S. Werner of Treadwell, Wis., contained a Shorewood address.

The body was shipped out of Milwaukee for burial. Subsequent investigation by the board of health caused Feerick to be examined and re-examined in the conviction of Dr. Edward Werner and the prosecution of Feerick on charges of unprofessional conduct.

The revocation of Feerick's embalmers' license will not interfere with his work as an undertaker but he will not be permitted to do embalming personally for one year.

3 Hearings Held

The state board held three hearings on the charges against Feerick. One witness, who drove the hearse that took the woman's body from the Jackson-st. address, testified that he made a statement at the time that he thought Mrs. Boddy died from an illegal operation. A Milwaukee doctor testified also that a man named John Busch, who was identified with the apartment rooms where the woman died, offered him money at the Feerick parlors to sign a false death certificate. Feerick and his employees all denied any knowledge of this and said they were given no reason to suspect the actual cause of the woman's death.

The board of health, in its conclusions, said:

"The board is not satisfied that the evidence produced at the hearings in this matter established that Ralph Feerick had actual knowledge that an illegal operation was the cause of the death of the body or that he acted dishonestly or in bad faith. The evidence, however, shows that the death certificate was false in several respects and we are satisfied that the evidence submitted established a lack of diligence in accepting the certificate without more adequate inquiry and without securing particulars directly from those qualified to supply them. We hold such negligence, under the circumstances, to be unprofessional conduct. The embalmers' license of Ralph Feerick, therefore, is revoked for one year with the condition that at the expiration of one year from this date it shall remain in force without any further application or examination. All charges except that relating to the acceptance of the death certificate in the Boddy case are dismissed."

Democrat Group To Hear L. P. Fox

Candidate for Governor Will Make Opening Speech Friday, Aug. 12

Calumet—Democrats will hold a mass meeting at Chilton farm grounds at 8 o'clock Friday, Aug. 12. It was announced today by the Democratic county committee, Joseph Schmidkofer, chairman, and August W. Fritsch, secretary.

The meeting will feature the opening campaign speech of L. P. Fox, Chilton, Democratic nominee for governor of Wisconsin. There also will be talks by F. Ryan Duffy, Fond du Lac, Democratic candidate for United States senator, and Dr. R. E. Breyer, Democratic congressman from the 2nd district and candidate for reelection, and Charles E. Bruggeman, Sheboygan, Democratic national committeeman from Wisconsin and well known publisher.

An invitation has been extended by the committee to all independent voters and members of the various political parties. The arena stand is large enough to accommodate a great crowd and has been equipped with amplifiers so everyone may hear.

June Business of A. A. L. Aggregates $2,041,900

The "A" production of business of the A. A. L. Association for Lutherans during June aggregated $2,041,900 compared to $1,999,650 in the same month a year ago, according to A. O. Benz, vice president of the association. The total production for the first six months of the year aggregates $11,035,270, he stated. The association issued 1,060 adult certificates with $1,710,500 insurance, and 413 juvenile certificates with $531,400 insurance in June.

When an automobile wrecks a train—that's news! The cars you see here, part of an express train running out of Williamsport, Pa., were toppled from the rails when the locomotive struck an auto abandoned on a grade crossing. A warning signal allowed the train to slacken its speed so that only three persons were slightly injured in the resulting wreck.

Lefthanded Horseshoe Meet to Feature Picnic

Meet to Feature Picnic

Now they're bragging again. As inevitably as the sun rises and sets, the week preceding and the week following the annual street department picnic brings on an amazing contest in bragadocty that would put to shame the lumberjacks of Paul Bunyan fame.

The picnic will be held Saturday at Stroeb's island, and until then the two camps, the street department employees and the city officials, will lie awake nights trying to think up ways of goading each other to frenzied competition in horseshoe, tug-of-war and baseball. The new wrinkle this year comes from the city hall side, a lefthanded horseshoe contest. Frank Vandenberg, janitor, and George Gauslin, plumbing inspector, will represent the city in this contest. # Duffy Launches Senate Campaign In Oshkosh Speech

Democrat Assails Blaine For "Masquerading As Republican"

(By the Associated Press)

F. Ryan Duffy, Fond du Lac, launched his campaign for the Democratic nomination for United States senator at Oshkosh last night with an attack on Senator John J. Blaine, whom he accused of "masquerading as a Republican to get elected, but spending the rest of his time damning everything Republican."

"It is a fraud for Blaine to run on the Republican platform and then spending all of his time damning everything Republican. It is not honest. It is not fair. It is not right. I do not care if he is supporting Gov. Franklin Roosevelt for the presidency. It is not the kind of support he needs. Governor Roosevelt needs the help of those pledged to support him and the things for which he stands," Duffy said.

The meeting, sponsored by the Winnebago County Democratic Club, was held in the National Guard Armory B. After an interruption of several minutes while guards entered to put away equipment used in drills, Duffy addressed the soldiers who loitered in the hall.

"I hope that if the day comes when you soldiers bare your chests to the bullets and perils of war and come to the time when you are without a job and are hungry that this government will not turn on you the tanks of war and the gas as it did in Washington," he said.

In outlining the bonus marchers from the nation's capital, Duffy said, there was shown "a lack of judgment which has been typical for the last four years."

Duffy predicted an overwhelming victory for the Democrats in the state and national elections this fall. There are those who would overthrow our government, seize upon the opportunity of the times to foment their program of bloodshed and revolution, he said, but under our system of government we can resort to an orderly manner of voting for a change.

William B. Rubin, Democratic candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, told an audience in Waukegan last night that the state's reduction of the property tax and increase of the total tax is "the worst practical shell game ever perpetrated on the American voters." He criticized the state banking department as being totally unequipped and ignorant and declared there is need for immediate reduction in the number of state commissions.

Plans Reduction Of Car Licenses For Rest of Year

Secretary of State Is Taking Poll of Legislators

Drivers who have left their cars out of operation this year because they were unable to pay the required license fee may be offered reduced rates for licenses for the remaining five months of the year, under plans now being arranged by Theodore Dammann, Madison, secretary of state.

The state official is polling members of the legislature, now out of session, to get their view on the plan and it is said that it will be put into operation if it has sufficient legislative support.

The argument is raised that the state would lose nothing by permitting cars to operate by merely paying for the months left in the year. If the cars stay out of operation, the state will receive nothing and it is figured that the additional license fees would add bolstering highway funds.

Wisconsin formerly granted license reductions after six months of license year has passed but the law was changed in the general re-shuffle of automobile legislation. New cars licensed during the year still find lower rates available as do also the cars that have been in operation for five or more years.

State Body Warns Starvation Lurks In "Back to Land"

Homestead Method of Selling County Tax Property Not Successful—Report

The back-to-the-land movement in Wisconsin will be no aid either to the state or to the individuals if the settlers are allowed to go on marginal land to substitute slow starvation for quick starvation, according to a report to Gov. LaFollette by the state committee on land use and forestry.

"It is no longer a question of putting agricultural land into agricultural use but of restraining the use of land for agriculture in proportion to the needs of the nation and in favor of the welfare of those engaged in agriculture," the committee says in its report.

"It certainly is stupid to have a farm board try to dispose of a troublesome surplus on the one hand and another branch of the government undertake to enlarge the area of farm land by opening new irrigation projects. Furthermore, the cut-over lands, drained lands and other lands which are available for agriculture are in private ownership. Taxes and carrying charges are driving these private landowners to sell the lands without regard to quality, location or desirability."

Regulars Paint Glum Picture of Progressive Rule

See Threat to Wisconsin's Future if Faction Continues Control

(By the Associated Press)

Candidates and workers of the regular Republican organization presented to audiences throughout the state last night a gloomy picture of Wisconsin's future under the domination of the Progressive faction of the party.

Edward J. Semp, candidate for state treasurer, discussed the Capital City bank case in an address at Richland Center. He criticized the state administration for gross inefficiency and lack of care on the part of a constitutional officer in the protection of public funds.

State Senator Ben Gettelman, candidate for secretary of state, said in a talk at Antigo that although the Progressives have been in control at Madison for 30 years, with ample opportunity to put into effect a long range budget policy, they have not shown any constructive plans. He said the Progressive policy of consolidation of departments program evolved by Governor Kohler would prove to be inefficient and economical were it not for the numerous appointments being made by Governor LaFollette.

Sensor Gettelman, hoarse from making four and five speeches a day for the past three weeks, said he would cancel talks at Ashland, Friday and Superior on Saturday. Col. Frank H. Schaeffer of Neenah will complete the senator's schedule for the week.

Paul H. Neversman, director of organization for the regular Republican committee, charged in an address at Medford that Governor LaFollette in his campaign for reelection "has been as careless of facts as he was two years ago in making promises." He accused the governor of resorting to the "cheapest kind of political trickery, namely half truths and false claims."

Howard T. Greene, vice chairman of the Republican State committee, speaking in Polonia hall, South Milwaukee, said Governor LaFollette in seeking to win the farmer vote refused to levy taxes on real and personal property, but was waging out every dollar that was left him in the treasury by Governor Kohler, in doing so.

Make Report on Tree Planting

7,442,000 Seedlings Set Out on 7,742 Acres in State

A recent compilation of records of the principal forest tree planting agencies reveal that there were 7,442,000 trees planted on 7,742 acres in Wisconsin this spring, according to information received here by the Wisconsin Conservation commission.

Of the total, the conservation department in its enlarged program, planted 5,348,000 on 5,907 acres in state forests. In open forest plantings the state planted 1,600,000 trees on approximately 1,600 acres to the acre.

The Nekosha Edwards Paper Co. was second with 1,600,000 trees planted on approximately 1,600 acres of land. The Wisconsin Paper Co. was third with 1,000,000 trees planted on 400 acres of land. The United States Forest Service planted, on national forests 640,000 trees on approximately 175 acres of land.

The Goodman Lumber Co. did considerable planting in open spaces of secure private lands in their forest areas in addition to the 5,348,000 trees planted by the state in state forests that were shipped out from the state forest tree nursery 845,000 trees to landowners for private forest planting. Of the total planting made by public and private agencies in the state, approximately 75 per cent were pine and the balance spruce.

Santa Claus Pays Visit to Children In Veterans' Camp

Efforts Being Made for Adequate Care of Youngsters in Pennsylvania

Johnstown, Pa.—It's a long, long way from toyland to the crude makeshift camp of the bonus expeditionary forces on the outskirts of Johnstown, and it's a long time until Christmas, but last night—Santa Claus came.

A rag doll, tramped in the mud where long lines of veterans stand for hours for mess, is the first indication to the visitor at the Amusement park camp that childhood is going through the trials as hosts who seek the bonus.

But upon a hillside and down close to the wooded section of the field, one sees that part of the bonus army termed by Mayor Eddie McCloskey the "gamest fighters of them all."

This is an ordeal for mothers and their children and for dozens of mere flippers of girls who fled with husbands and fathers and brothers from disorders in Washington.

In a withering sun they have set up "homes"—for the most part shelters built from branches of trees, carried in by men. These branches are placed to form a tent and are covered with leaves and grass.

But the last few days women and children are being moved into sheds not far from the amusement section of the park.

Here through long hours mothers sit with babes in their arms, or watch babies play on hard floors or on the muddy grass just outside the door.

The motherhood of the camp has appealed to the staff to see that everything is done for the children. Efforts have been made to obtain first grade milk instead of skimmed milk that has been the fare for the first few days.

H. M. Gooderham of Patton, Pa., of the foods and chemicals bureau, has been made honorary aid to Roke Smith, in charge of supplies, and Gooderham said today he will see that the children are more properly fed.

Every day is wash day at the camp and tattered frocks fly in the wind with ragged skirts across bits of rope tied from tree to tree.

Before a bit of broken mirror here and there, fastened to autos, to trees and tents, is where what primping possible is done.

Mrs. Alma Sheridan of Cincinnati, Ohio, however has emphatically declined to remain in the women's quarters. In male attire she is out every day soliciting supplies from merchants and market keepers.

And it was to all this that Santa came last night.

This morning, a big supply of toys gladdened the hearts of the bonus babies. No one seemed to know whence the gifts—that is, no one except the babies. They know there is a Santa Claus.

Hits Lethargy Of People in Public Affairs

Speaker Says "Right People" Don't "Squawk" Enough

Hanging the blame for conditions in politics, the theatre, movies, advertising and radio on the same peg, Richard S. Davis, of the editorial staff of the Milwaukee Journal, in a self-termed "harangue on this and that," scored the lethargic non-squawk attitude of the intelligent public in an address at Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon.

"The cheap mind applauds what he likes, so he gets what he wants," he said. "The intelligent mind doesn't bother to write a letter about the things he likes or doesn't like, and that is why everything today—in advertising, the theatre, the movies and the radio—is designed to appeal to the lower minds. That is why we have advertising like 'her best friend would tell her' and 'many times a bridesmaid but never a bride.' That's why we have state jokes in the theatre, why a hoop-skirt singer can find a job in America while the person who has studied in Milan and learned to sing beautifully can find no work."

Politics are as they are, he said, because of the type of mind the Democrats and Republicans send to conventions. Based on personal observations at his three political conventions this summer, he expressed the opinion that the Socialist convention had the most intelligent delegates.

Watch Each Other

He said Milwaukee has good government because the Socialistic mayor is being watched by both the Democrats and Republicans. The two latter parties, he stated, are too much alike—a case of one steals while the other is a thief.

He decried the fact that Wisconsin has no legitimate theatre, calling it a reflection on the culture of the Wisconsin public. The dependence of the entire country on the New York judgment of plays is ridiculous, he said, in the face of the fact that New York is not a typical American city, and yet is the criterion of the theatre which is to be given to the rest of the country. Many plays which are doomed at their New York premier, and therefore never reach the rest of the country, might go very well in other places, he stated. He complimented the work of the Winnebago Players at Neenah and suggested that this and similar groups not only produce plays, but write their own.

Music, he felt, is also in a bad way, with only one major musical organization remaining in the country since the collapse of the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Scores Attitude

Speaking of athletics, he said the American public is a little bit foolish about athletics. He spoke of the foolishness of boys refusing to attend this and that school because that particular school's athletic outlook is a bit mournful, and then talked of the drawing power for a school of an outstanding athlete. Illustrating with the story of Frankie Parker, whom the Milwaukee Journal started on his tennis career, Mr. Davis explained that often a boy who would make nothing of his life finds a strong future in some athletic pursuit.

"We will squawk about a meagre portion of roast beef in a restaurant," he concluded, "why don't we do the same howling about politics, the theatre and everything that aims its appeal to the lower mind. I am afraid we are becoming a nation of nitwits!"

Sixty-one Arrests Made By Police During July

Sixty-one arrests were made last month by Appleton police officers, according to Police Chief George T. Prim. The Buick touring car answered 200 calls and traveled a total of 1,019 miles during the month. The Ford squad car traveled 2,203 miles and the Chevrolet squad car went 2,456 miles.

There were three arrests during June on disorderly conduct charges; two for larceny as bailie; two for drunken driving, four for drunkenness charges, one for passing traffic signal lights; one for larceny, one for conspiracy, two for passing articles; four for speeding, one for escaping from the prison farm at Waupun, one for passing worthless checks, 12 for parking cars longer than 90 minutes, and 17 for violation of the two hour parking law, four for delinquency, two for reckless driving, one for having possession of dangerous weapons, one for operating soft drink parlor without a license and one for larceny of an automobile.

Voters Urged to Register at Once

City Clerk Points Out That Registration at Polls Is Bothersome

With the probability that there will be no special deputies at the polls this fall, to assist in last minute registration, Carl Becher, city clerk, urges all voters to take advantage of this period to register at city hall. Registering now, before the pre-election rush, is a simple procedure which requires only a few moments, he points out, while registration at the polls involves the presence of two property owners and a notary public.

From now until 10 days before the primary, which falls on Sept. 20, registration can be made at the clerk's office. The open period will close Sept. 10, and from then and until after the primary no registration can be made except at the polls on the day of the primary. The same is true of the general election, which will occur on Nov. 8.

Your Health Question and Its Answer

By J. A. PANNECK
Chiropractor and Author

QUESTION: I am a young woman, not at all well. I contract diseases very easily. My doctor tells me that I have low resistance which makes me susceptible to disease. I am discouraged and melancholy. I have about decided to change doctors. Please explain more about Chiropractic.

ANSWER: The energy by which the body is run accumulates in the brain and stores in the nervous system where it is automatically released and conveyed to the cells, giving them life and power to perform healthy functions. All healing is done by this internal force of nature. I am a force resident in the brain, the nerves and the cells. All vital energy is nerve energy, and when that vital power is free to flow in abundance, the body will get well from almost any disease or injury short of complete destruction of vital organs. The healing occurs in the repairing in the diseased tissues and organs and in the cells, restoring and repairing themselves first a normal state of health. The energy is then sent to the nervous system from the brain. Vitality always works upward toward life and health so long as the nerves passing thru the spine are free from any interference to their normal action. This is based upon the fundamental health law of nature. Disease is simply abnormal action, because of abnormal conditions from pressure on nerves in the spine. The life-force is nature acting thru or in the nerves and cells. It is another name for nerve energy and does the work of carrying on life and restoring health. The chiropractor adjusts the misaligned bones of the spine back to normal position, which re-establishes an uninterrupted communication between brain and body and prepares the way for Nature to do her mighty work in restoring health and strength to a weak, ailing person.

Survey Will Show County Need of Flour

Plan to Request Second Shipment Soon for Poor Relief Work

Questionnaires are being sent out to the 31 towns, cities and villages of Outagamie-co to determine the amount of flour which they will need when the Outagamie County Chapter of the American Red Cross makes its second request for that product from the federal farm board. John E. Hantschel, county clerk, is sending out the questionnaires.

Mr. Hantschel, together with A. W. Jensen, secretary of the Red Cross in the county, and Anton Jansen, chairman of the county board committee on poor relief, comprise the committee having charge of the requisitioning for flour from the government.

About two months ago the county received its first shipment of 758 barrels of flour. This was distributed and according to Mr. Hantschel some of the districts have already used their entire allotment. When making a request for more flour the district must furnish a report showing disposition of its first shipment.

The questionnaires, according to Mr. Hantschel, will seek to determine how many districts no longer have flour on hand; how much flour other districts still have; and how much they need for relief work during the next 90-day period.

Of the 758 barrels of flour furnished to Outagamie-co, 450 barrels went to Appleton families supported by the city, numbered 2,250 persons. The total number in the county was estimated at 3,790 persons. Only three of the county districts have not been supplied with flour because the town chairman saw no need for it. These are the towns of Maple Creek, Dale and Liberty.

The total of 3,790 persons supported by city, town and villages does not represent the entire county. Figures show that 27 barrels of flour were given to the town of Oneida for relief among Indians in that town, who received aid through the federal Indian agency on the Menominee Indian reservation at Keshena. With these extra 455 persons, the total number of indigents reaches 4,245 persons in the county as a whole.

Following a report by the poor relief committee, the Outagamie-co chapter of the American Red Cross will make the disposition of the first shipment of flour, and after 90 days, communities will make a second requisition for flour. It is to aid the movement and cause less delay that the questionnaires are being sent out.

New Riots Break Out in Germany; Report 3 Deaths

Von Schleicher Quoted Expressing Admiration For Adolf Hitler

a frank admiration for Adolf Hitler, Nazi leader, and declaring Hitler's movement must be used, "because it is fired with faith."

Critics Bruening He contrasted Hitler with former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, whom he called "an ascetic," declaring Dr. Bruening failed to make the masses of the people understand his aims.

"Germany's former error was a false optimism," he was quoted as saying. "Dr. Bruening told the people the truth but after a while the masses always become unresponsive to asceticism, particularly when they are called upon to make sacrifices without understanding why. They will submit to the greatest privations, I think, if one only talks the language that touches their hearts."

Later on in the interview, the Junker leader said: "Some people are so afraid of responsibility they can't sleep. I'm not, and I don't suffer from sleeplessness, either."

Political passions continued to run high today, especially in East Prussia. Social Democratic party functionaries were fired through windows at Norgau, near Koenigsberg, and at Skillen, near Tilist. Communist bands poured volleys of gunfire into local Nazi congregating points in Zwenkau and Kaiserslautern.

At Hofgeismar, the police seized an armored Nazi lorry and at Katscher a big Nazi arms dump was discovered. Isolated assaults were reported at Breslau, Memmingen and at Solingen.

Rubbish Collectors to Cover Street Just Once

Rubbish placed at the curb after the street department pickup crew had traversed the street will have to be returned to the basement or the backyard until next month, street department officials said today. No street will be worked twice, as more time is consumed in collecting the stray piles of rubbish that are put out for later than in gathering up those that are at the curb when the truck makes its first trip. For several months the collectors have made an attempt to collect these last-minute collections but inasmuch as property owners have begun to rely upon the return of a truck, the practice must be stopped.

The monthly collection, which started Tuesday, will be completed within a day or two.

Fair, Continued Warm Is Weather Prediction

Clear skies with little change in temperature is the weatherman's offering for Appleton and vicinity for tonight and Thursday.

Fair weather and continued warm weather has been forecast over most of the middlewest for the next 24 hours. Winds are shifting in the west and southwest, a good indication that warm weather will continue.

At 8 o'clock Wednesday morning the mercury registered 82 degrees above zero, and at noon it registered 82 degrees above.

Personals

Miss Mildred Vogel and Miss Rosemary Melver are spending a two weeks' vacation at Ellington. Mary Jane Dick, Plymouth, is visiting with her grandmother, Mrs. Carolina Dick, 1401 E. John-st. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dimick and Mrs. H. G. Dimick returned last night from Nobequay lake near Crivitz where they spent a week vacationing. G. L. Chamberlin returned last night from a trip through Wisconsin and Minnesota.

P. O. Clerk Keeps In Trim Pedaling Bicycle to Work

There are three reasons why Robert Boettcher, money-order clerk at Appleton postoffice rides his bicycle to the office from his home on route 6 every day, rain, snow or shine. In the first place "Bob" says riding a bicycle is great exercise and keeps him fit; secondly, he's doing his part to solve the city parking problem, and finally, it's real economy.

Mr. Boettcher has been riding to work on a bicycle since 1918, covering approximately 3,000 miles a year. Since he started that mode of transportation to the office he says he has pedaled for a total of 48,000 miles. He has worn out one bicycle and is now on his second.

Greunke to Attend State P. O. Meet

Postmasters of Wisconsin To Gather at Beaver Dam for Convention

Emmery Greunke, Appleton postmaster will leave Thursday morning for Beaver Dam to attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin Association of Postmasters. Arch Coleman, first assistant postmaster general will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet and dance on Friday evening.

Other speakers will include Mayor or Rae Weaver, Beaver Dam; E. P. Brown, head of Wayland academy; Beaver Dam; W. R. Pollock, manager of Northwest Airways, Inc., St. Paul, Minn.; Thomas W. Evans, Appleton postal inspector; Warden Oscar Lee of the state penitentiary; Waupun; J. C. Harrmann, director of parcel post, Washington, D. C.; Judge C. M. Davidson, Beaver Dam, and President James J. Patchell of the National Association of Postmasters, Union City, Ind.

The convention is scheduled to open at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with registration of delegates followed by a dinner for the executive committee officers, and visiting officials at Hotel Rogers. A theatre party, a smoker and dancing will furnish entertainment following the dinner.

Schwartz, Bay File Nomination Papers

Nomination papers of two candidates for county offices at the September primary election have been filed with John E. Hantschel, county clerk. They were papers of Peter Schwartz, Republican candidate for sheriff, and William Bay, Kaukauna, Republican candidate for nomination as assemblyman from the second district of Outagamie-co.

Papers for another candidate for nomination as county surveyor were taken out yesterday. They were for Anna DeWitt, Little Chute, who seeks the Democratic nomination for the office.

Nomination papers for the September primary all must be filed with the county clerk by Tuesday of next week.

2 County Committees Will Meet Thursday

Two county board of supervisor committees will hold meetings Thursday afternoon at the court house. They are the printing committee and the building and grounds committee. Both groups will transact routine business and all bills.

The county poor committee met this afternoon at the court house and discussed the question of mothers' pensions.

Arrest 2 Youngsters After Theft Attempt

Two Kaukauna youngsters, aged 8 and 10, respectively, probably had their "crap shooting" escapade nipped in the bud yesterday afternoon when they were caught taking a pair of large dice from the Woolworth Co. store on E. College-ave. The two boys were apprehended by Capt. P. J. Vaughn. After being severely reprimanded by police, the youngsters were sent home.

Co-Op to Enforce Adherence to Its Member Contracts

Get Injunction to Halt Sale Of Milk to Clintonville Dealer

Madison—Declaring that the "Pure Milk Products Cooperative" would no longer tolerate interference with its contracts with members, Thomas A. O'Connor, Clintonville, president of Cooperative, today confirmed the report that a permanent injunction had been entered against one member of the association and the dealer who purchased his milk. Mr. O'Connor further declared that the cooperative would assert its rights under the cooperative law and would secure injunctions against all milk dealers purchasing from Pure Milk members in violation of their contracts.

The announcement of Mr. O'Connor followed a test case in which permanent injunctions were secured against Julius Zimmerman, member of the New London local, and O. R. Schwantes, dealer at Clintonville. Schwantes had been purchasing milk from Zimmerman and refused to change his policy whereupon the injunction was secured. The actions were brought in the circuit court for Dane-co. According to the agreement between the Pure Milk Products Cooperative and its members, all milk of the members must be sold through the association.

Commenting upon the statement of Mr. O'Connor, R. M. O'Connell, counsel for the department of agriculture and markets, stated that only by "coherence can co-operatives of this nature continue to exist during periods of depression."

Charge Youth With Pointing Revolver

Sylvan Bodoh, Liberty, Pleads Not Guilty to Allegation

Sylvan Bodoh, town of Liberty youth was charged in municipal court this morning on a charge of aiming and pointing a revolver at Arthur Peters, a neighbor. He pleaded not guilty and the case was set for Monday, Aug. 8. The youth was released to his father.

Bodoh and Peters had an argument Monday and it is alleged that when Peters sought to leave Bodoh pointed the revolver and told him he had better not. The revolver was of rather ancient vintage, and when taken by Sheriff John Lappen was trigger-less and had no shells in it.

Bodoh was picked up by Sheriff Lappen yesterday.

Men Receiving Aid Will be Given Jobs Pruning City Trees

Four crews of city employees, each group under the direction of an experienced tree trimmer, will start next week to trim all trees in the city. The crews will be made up of men who are working out their indebtedness to the city public relief fund.

In other years most tree trimming was done by the city and the cost charged to the property owner. This year, inasmuch as the property owner is paying, through taxes, for the upkeep of the men who will do the work, there will be no direct charge to the property.

The trimmings will be hauled to the stock fairgrounds, where other workers will cut off the brush for burning, and chop the heavier pieces in firewood, which will be distributed to the poor next winter.

According to Mayor John W. Goodland, Jr., trees throughout the city are in a sad state. Limbs hang down over the walks, and the interlocking of limbs over the street often obliterates all light from the street lamps.

U. S. Accepts Bid To Conference on Economic Issues

Way Left Open for Possible Debt Discussion With Various Nations

Washington—(AP)—The United States is willing to join a world economic conference that will ignore debts and specific tariff rates—but it has left open the possibility of debt discussions with individual nations.

An invitation to the economic meeting sponsored by the league of nations was accepted yesterday. The American note, delivered to the British embassy, was not made public but it outlined reasons for acceptance and said representatives for this country would be named later.

The request to join stipulated that individual tariffs, reparations and debts would not be on the agenda for discussion. It specified that general tariff policy and silver would and that representatives of the participating nations be designated to three committees—one to arrange the conference itself, one on economic and one on financial problems.

By accepting this invitation, the state department passed up a suggestion by Senator Borah, Idaho independent Republican, that war debts and reparations should be considered at the meeting along with disarmament. But debts and reparations can be gotten at in another way.

President Hoover said just after the Lausanne agreement leading to the new conference that the United States could not be bludgeoned into a consideration of debts by any combination of European nations. The state department, of course, took the same position.

But neither officially nor unofficially has a responsible administration leader said so far that the United States would not hold separate talks with European nations on this problem. The question hangs, however, on some concerted plan abroad first to reduce arms.

When such an agreement is reached it is almost a foregone conclusion that America will at least talk about debts.

City Funds Put In Three Banks

Change Made to Compensate for Withdrawals At Tax Time

All banks in the city are now qualified as public depositories, and public funds are being deposited in each of the three banks, proportionately with the capital and surplus of each bank. Formerly one bank last year the First National, handled all city funds.

The change was made to compensate each bank for the heavy withdrawals at tax time. Under the old system thousands of dollars were drawn from each bank at tax time, paid to the city, and then deposited in only one of the three banks. Consequently the other two were subject to heavy withdrawals and no reimbursement. With the present arrangements each bank will find relief from the heavy drain at tax time.

All public funds are protected by the state, which sets the rate of interest which a bank may pay on public funds.

Oiling Program Will Be Ended This Week

The city oiling program, which has been in progress since May, will be completed sometime this week. The last of 21 tanks of oil is now being poured on the few remaining streets in need of oiling.

Invite Rural Carriers To Meet Here Next Year

The Appleton Chamber of Commerce has sent an invitation to the Wisconsin State Association of Rural Letter Carriers to hold its 1933 convention in Appleton. The association is holding its annual conference at Platteville this week.

Firemen Here in 1933

Efforts to bring the 1933 convention of the Wisconsin Paid Firemen's association to Appleton are being made by Joseph Drexler, Appleton delegate, and the Appleton Chamber of Commerce. The convention is meeting at Janesville this year.

The Outagamie-co Republican committee's plan of giving five pounds of cheese manufactured in the county with each campaign contribution of $1 or more has been adopted by the Brown-co G. O. P. group. The Brown County Committee, however, is giving five pounds of Brown-co cheese with contributions of $2 or more. The Outagamie plan was instituted by Robert O. Schmidt, chairman of the committee, and Seymour Gmeiner.

While Brown-co is the first other county to actually adopt the plan, Mr. Schmidt said he has received scores of inquiries about it both from Wisconsin and from other states. In addition many contributions have been received from donors living outside Wisconsin, who read of the plan in newspapers.

4-H Club Members Open Annual Camp At Onaway Island

Gustav E. Sell, Miss Harriet Thompson Will Direct Program

About 60 4-H club members from Outagamie-co tomorrow will go to Waupaca Thursday where they will join club members from Waushara, Waupaca and Winnebago-coes for a four day camp on Onaway Island, at the Wisconsin Veterans' Home. The county is represented by at least one delegate from each of the clubs and in some instances by two or three members.

Thursday's program calls for arrival in camp by 2:30 in the afternoon. At 3 o'clock there will be a general assembly and camp organization and at 3:30 handicraft selection. A swim is scheduled from 4 to 5 o'clock and at 7:30 a camp fire program.

On Friday, the first regular camp day program will start at 6:15 and the various leaders will take charge for the remainder of the day. In the afternoon there will be special features, nature study and a health program. Handicraft, swimming, tent inspection and flag lowering also will feature. In the evening there also will be a camp fire program.

The Friday program will be repeated Saturday and Sunday will be family day at which time visitors will inspect the camp. There will be dinner at noon and a program at 1 o'clock. A swim is scheduled at 2 o'clock and camp will be broken at 3 o'clock and the young people will return to their homes.

Miss Harriet Thompson, county club leader and Gustav A. Sell, county agricultural leader, will direct part of the four day program.

Railman Found Dead At Hortonville Home

Otto Reinke, station agent at Hortonville of the Chicago Northwestern Railway, was found dead early this morning, sitting in a rocking chair on the porch of his home. Mr. Reinke has suffered with heart trouble for the past few years. He was last seen mowing the lawn last night, after which he sat down to rest on the front porch. It is believed that he died last night after sitting in the chair. He was alone as Mrs. Renke was at the family cottage at Post lake. Before coming to Hortonville about seven years ago Mr. Reinke was the station agent at Aniva. Survivors are the widow and one son.

Eye Political Reactions on Use of Troops

Bonus Army Affair Not Expected to Bolster Hoover's Chances

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Enough time has elapsed to appraise the political effect of the use of federal troops to chase the bonus seekers out of the national capital.

For many weeks it has been an open secret that the course of hesitation and vacillation, which led so many of the bonus men to think the government was timid and frightened and that the chief executive himself was afraid, was due to a belief that whatever matter what form the compulsion took, whether city police or troops, there would be a political aftermath.

Already the radicals have protested and there are signs that political opponents of the president will seek a congressional investigation, but that cannot come until December anyhow, by which time it will not be of much avail politically and will only be in academic review of an unfortunate series of events.

The question of whether the police should have been used to evict the ex-service men from government property is one that was seriously debated for a long time and the conclusion was reached that it meant the sacrifice of the lives of many policemen and doubtless some casualties among the veterans. It meant victory for the veterans, with all the dangers that might be involved in a sudden discovery that the police had been overpowered.

Shooting By Police

General Glassford, superintendent of police, thinks he could have handled the situation without bloodshed but the fact remains that while the police did handle it and before the troops came into the picture, shots were fired that resulted ultimately in the death of two veterans and the serious wounding of many others, including at least two policemen.

The argument now made is that the police should have continued their battle with the veterans and that if they were overpowered, then the federal troops should have been brought in. Certainly from the standpoint of politics, this would have cleared Mr. Hoover and would have emphasized the need for the troops more than was the case with the prompt ordering of the army to the scene.

But it is asserted by government officials that while this might have been politically better, it would have cost more lives and that the decision to mop up came as the result of a deliberate belief in the efficacy of the troops as a means of preventing bloodshed and ridding Washington promptly of a problem that constituted a danger of recurrent disorder.

But as it turns out, the criticism of the president, while confined to liberal and radical organizations and a few members of congress, is bound to be politically harmful, though, to be sure, Mr. Hoover's veto of the bonus before and his efforts at economy on certain veterans' allowances have made him far from popular with the ex-service groups anyway.

The one chance that the feeling against the administration for its use of troops will be lost in the shuffle is the prospect of disorder in Pennsylvania, where the 5,000 or more bonus men have congregated. Thus far there have been no disorders but the presence of Communist agitators is well known and their effort constantly is to foment trouble so as to arouse ex-service men.

Ever since the Communists began their open demonstrations in New York they have been seeking to gather in the ex-service men. While it is true that Commander Waters repudiates the Communists, nevertheless his constant work in recruiting a bonus army is exactly what the Communist leaders are seeking. The Communist policy in America is to bring about as much disturbance as possible in the hope that this will advertise Communist doctrine and bring converts to their cause.

Display of Power

It was because the government wanted to deal quickly and effectively with the bonus army that troops were used, but there remains no doubt that the conservatives in the country saw at the same time a show of teeth against uprisings elsewhere. The army didn't need tanks or tear bombs or rifles, but the old rule of physical force is to exhibit power and strike terror.

Maybe a handful of men could have accomplished the same thing, maybe a police force would have been sufficient. Hindsight now is better than foresight but, politically speaking, it was a decision arrived at after much hesitation and real fear that it would hurt the Hoover cause. That is has caused some political damage is undisputed, even though it has brought the president some new support among conservative, hitherto disaffected, because of other issues. If Mr. Hoover loses the election, it will be probably to a fatal mistake. If he wins, it will be hailed as one of the signs that he exhibited courage and steadfastness in an emergency. It was Calvin Coolidge's forceful break-up of the police strike in Boston that won him fame.

It remains to be seen, however, what happens in Pennsylvania to the hungry, distressed horde of ex-service men and their families before the bonus exhibit can be erased from the political map as a big red spot on potential trouble.

Many Inquire About New Marquette Plan

Milwaukee —(P)—Marquette university's "pay-as-you-learn" system of education has elicited interested inquiries from students in all parts of the country, Robert G. Haukoil, head of the school's vocational guidance department, has announced.

Under the plan, to be initiated during the next semester, a student may pay half of his tuition upon entrance in September, and the remaining 50 per cent on or before Dec. 1, similarly, the payments on the second semester's matriculation may be made on Feb. 1 and on April 1.

The plan will be inaugurated as a result of the university's desire to cooperate with students in the time of the depression, Mr. Haukoil said.

On the tower of the hall alone there are 2,700 feet of tubing, on the pylons there are 1,280 feet, and inside the great hall 780 feet.

UNCLE SAM'S NEW TAXES WHERE THEY HIT YOU —AND HOW!

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the eighth of 20 daily articles explaining the new federal taxes.

BY ROBERT TALLEY
(Copyright, 1932 NEA Service, Inc.)

Are you an outdoor sportsman who likes the woods and waters?

Hunter or fisherman or yachtsman, you must now pay tax to Uncle Sam to help him balance his budget under the new 1932 revenue law.

There is now a 10 per cent sales tax on firearms and all ammunition, a 10 per cent tax on fishing equipment of all kinds (except that used by commercial fishermen in the conduct of their business.) If you use a boat more than 28 feet long, you must now pay a tax of so much per year for THE USE of said boat; if you had rather be economical and paddle your own canoe, you will find a 10 per cent federal tax on canoe paddles.

Except for the tax on the use of boats, all these taxes are manufacturers' excise taxes which the manufacturer adds to his sale price and which are usually passed on to the ultimate purchaser. The annual license tax on boats is $10 on those of from 28 to 50 feet in length, $40 on those from 50 to 100 feet, $100 from 100 to 150 feet, $150 from 150 to 200 feet, $200 from 200 feet and over. This applies to the use of every kind of pleasure boat and is expected to yield $500,000 a year.

Using very modest prices, let's see what a fisherman would pay in tax on a new outfit: Figure his rod and reel at $10, a half dozen casting baits at $5, a fly rod at $10, a reel for the same at $2, flies at $2 and tackle at $5. That's a total of $35, on which the tax is 10 per cent of the manufacturer's sale price, though many merchants collect it on the basis of the retail price.

The hunter pays about $25 for a double-barrel shotgun, on which the tax is 10 per cent. On a day's hunt, he may shoot a box of shells which cost him about $1 and on which the tax is also 10 per cent.

Apparently, Uncle Sam doesn't overlook the gangster since the tax on firearms specifically includes machine guns, pistols and revolvers are exempt from this tax, since they are covered by an older tax. However, the new tax applies to ammunition for all weapons. Treasury experts estimate the new tax on firearms and ammunition will yield $2,000,000 a year.

Equipment Needed for Fly-Casting Outlined

BY BERT CLAFIN

Since I have written of fishing with a fly rod in several articles recently, I have received a number of letters asking for details as to outfit, how to use such an outfit and where. So far as where to use it is concerned that is easily answered by saying anywhere. Any kind of game fish can be taken on a fly rod, from the humble perch to the vicious musky. The only drawback to using such a rod for taking the large, fighting specimens, is that they are often found among sunken snags and weed beds. In such places, of course, it is not possible to apply the proper forces to handle the fish without damaging the rod.

However, it can be used in enough waters to make of it a method of great pleasure. When I speak of fly rods I mean those split bamboo or other wood makes. I do not consider any fly rod of steel a weapon worthy of consideration.

They are too whippy, too cumbersome and too apt to break at the wrong time.

Your bamboo rod, then, should weigh between five and six ounces to be a happy medium. Your line should be of the right weight if you expect to properly cast it. For a rod weighing 5 1/2 ounces, use a size "G" enameled level line, or if tapered one of size HDH. As for leaders, for trout fishing use as long one as is compatible with good handling. For bass and other game fish one of about three feet is ample.

In reels I prefer a single action, though I have and sometimes use the automatic. The reel is a secondary consideration, anyhow. All it is intended to do is take up line and not to play the fish, notwithstanding the contention of some anglers that they play their fish "from the reel."

As for lures, anything will do that is light enough to be properly handled. Flies for trout are the orthodox baits. For bass and northern pike surface flies are all right, but many forms of artificial "bugs" are perhaps a bit more appealing. Usually one that rides the surface of the water with considerable disturbance is deadly.

On the St. Croix river in western Wisconsin, to ascertain how many kinds of fly rod lures would take bass, I caught them on imitation dragon flies, various bugs, floating dry flies and wet patterns, some with little more than large upright wings, and others with long streaming hackles. The only reason a bass or pike hits a fly, or any other lure for that matter, is that he believes it to be some sort of food. And so long as they like action in live food victims, then impart to your imitation as nearly the automatic as is possible. Give it some twitchy jerks on the surface, then let it rest momentarily and repeat. If there is a bass or pike in the vicinity the chances are that he will come. Once you use the fly rod with success you will become a lifetime convert.

WHAT DO THEY PROPOSE TO DO?

Speaking at DePere Senator Blaine characterized the evacuation of the bonus army from Washington as "the blackest spot on the capitol in its history." Continuing Mr. Blaine declared that "these veterans were orderly, they were peaceful, their assembly was as quiet as any Sunday school picnic you or I ever attended."

Now we weren't at Washington when the flare-up took place and neither was Senator Blaine. But many pictures have been printed showing men flinging missiles. We never attended a Sunday school picnic where they did anything of that kind.

Mr. Blaine was one who encouraged these men to come to Washington. He was one who encouraged them to stay there. If he has ordinary intelligence, which we presume in his favor, he should have realized how futile, how useless and how dangerous was this movement to everyone involved with the possible exception of those who are not unwilling to take risky chances for political effects, to put someone in a hole.

Mr. Blaine is not a communist but his ideas sometimes work hand in hand with the purposes of those who seek to destroy this republic, who avowedly would make a shambles of the nation.

Let us see how this idea of Mr. Blaine's may be expected to work out.

Suppose the American Federation of Labor with its several million members proposes certain legislation and a great many Blaines said: "Come to Washington and show your strength." Or suppose the vets, three-fourths of the nation were to answer such an ill-advised summons and repair to the national capital—what then?

What do they propose to do?

Don't permit anyone who advocates such a plan to get away from that question: What do they propose to do?

The men may not have any definite idea of the purpose for which they will be used but the leaders have.

And those leaders propose to jam the avenues, flood the galleries, stampede the capital, parade before every person who has a vote and by intimidation, scowling, arguments, threats, coerce favorable action.

The whole purpose of such a movement is to blackmail the nation.

We know well that that is not communism.

It is anarchy.

It is the destruction of order, reason, deliberation. It is the substitution of force for sense.

This particular movement was a moon-calf idea. It was based upon the astonishing conclusion that the American people would permit anyone, however great the numbers or high their standing or reputation, to practically say to the government: "Either alter the law or be altered yourself."

Will anyone claim that the people are not smart enough to see that such a procedure means the rule of bedlam, fanaticism and popular wrath and madness? How easy it would be to terrorize the nation and choke all other activities at Washington by a great mob planted and controlled by nimble-witted men?

The people of Wisconsin ought to try to picture what a horse race this country would be if Mr. Blaine's pet ideas were upheld by a majority of congress and the president.

JUSTICE

A black man carrying the name of Ford is running for vice president of the United States on the communist ticket. He received that exalted honor because his grandfather was lynched for assaulting a white woman.

He was one of the frenzied fighters that sought to stir up the bonus army at Washington, and landed in the hands of the police. The authorities determined to buy him a ticket and send him under guard to Alabama, his old home. He almost went white at the thought, and babbled piteously not to be sent to Alabama. "They sure would treat me rough down there," he said.

Thereupon the authorities sent him to New York. Immediately his cringing, cowardly attitude turned to one of deep satisfaction and defiance. He was going to stay in a land where he could bellow to his heart's content.

Now let us turn quickly to a news item from Budapest, Hungary, concerning the action there on the same day against two communists, Sallay and Fuerst. These men were not charged with murder, arson or even assault. They were charged with a conspiracy to further the cause of communism in Hungary "by organizing street demonstrations of the unemployed." Prior to the time of their trial they confessed in writing their purposes.

Here then are the steps of the proceedings that followed:

At 2:00 o'clock the trial commenced, the confessions were introduced and the various formalities were gone through.

At 2:10 they were found guilty and sentenced to death. The court peremptorily refused them the right of an appeal for a pardon to Regent Horthy, the executive head of Hungary.

At 3:00 o'clock they were placed in automobiles and driven to an outlying prison courtyard.

One of them was hanged at 4:15 and the other at 4:16.

As the first one felt the rope around his neck he shouted, "Long life to Russia," so the second one was gagged. They wouldn't even let him shout, although it is reported that he hid himself of half a shout.

A few years ago Hungary was under communist rule for several days. That's why it is so severe on them. They haven't yet wiped all the blood from the cobblestones.

And yet we have it dinned into our ears that America is too rough in enforcing order. Rough like a feather bed!

THE GREATEST HIGHWAY MENACE

One of the interesting bits of information of the month comes from the National Safety Council, which reports that—contrary to popular belief—it is not the drunken driver who is the greatest menace on the highway, but the plain, ordinary careless driver.

Of the 33,500 automobile traffic fatalities in the United States last year, less than 2 per cent were caused by drunken drivers, the Safety Council reports. The completely sober driver who failed to exercise proper care was by far more dangerous.

People have been pretty well educated to the fact that a man with a quantity of booze in his stomach has no place behind the steering wheel. They have not yet realized that no man has any business driving a car unless he keeps his mind on his job every second, abstains from too great speeds, observes the rules of the road scrupulously and keeps always in the back of his mind the consciousness that the slightest lapse on his part may cause a tragedy.

OUR ILLITERACY RECORD

Compared to other nations, we are inclined to think of ourselves as ranking high in literacy. Our school system, providing as it does easy opportunity for acquiring at least the rudiments of knowledge, is accounted inferior to none. We like to point with pride to our educational methods and the vast sums we spend annually for this purpose.

Our record for illiteracy is far from poor. Yet it was only as recent as 1900 that more than ten per cent of our population above the age of ten years could neither read nor write, a national disgrace.

Conditions are improving. The Bureau of the Census reports that on April 1, 1930 the number of illiterates in this country was 4,233,753, or 4.3 per cent of the 98,723,753 persons who were ten years old or older.

But what of our neighbors? Some of our smugness disappears when we find that in 1927 Germany's population of sixty-seven millions had an illiteracy percentage of only seven-tenths of one per cent. Austria's record is better than ours, being four per cent and while there are no available statistics for the British Isles or the Scandinavian countries of Europe, their percentages are accounted low.

Our next door neighbor, Canada, boasts of having reduced illiteracy to one per cent but there comes a real shock to our pride when we find that Japan, generally considered a late starter in the race for progress, has a record equal to that of Germany, or six times better than the American showing in 1930.

In the United States, all of that territory stretching solidly from the Atlantic, below Maryland and Delaware and south of the Ohio, all the way to the eastern border of California, with the single exception of Oklahoma, is above the 4.3 per cent national average in illiteracy. The northern tier of states from Maine to Utah is between 2 and 4.3 per cent, while the entire Northwest is the least illiterate section of the country (between 1 and 2 per cent) with the exception of one lone state which has the record of being less than one per cent illiterate. That is the state of Iowa.

By 1940 our record should show a further decrease because compulsory education is becoming more general and because the high percentage of illiterates in 1930 was among adults of 65 years and older who had no educational advantages in youth. The young today have and should continue to have better opportunities for education, unless unnecessary and unreasonable extravagances of government should slow up our educational progress.

Mrs. Isaac Wilson, 91, of Clearfield, Ia., still owns a farm that her husband bought 57 years ago for $125 an acre.

About $12,500,000 will be spent for road construction in the Missouri Ozark region this year.

DUNNO what these lads who continually croak about the absence of rainfall are going to do . . . "I know, the kind who, after a loud and long splashing, will comment, 'well, it was hardly enough to soak up the ground' . . . there has been considerable splashing about here lately . . . the weather has not been particularly outrageous as it was last year . . . farm products have every reason to grow . . . we wait and wonder what the perennial pessimists are going to find to cry about outside of the prices . . .

The Olympics seem to be open and the athletes are dashing about in great shape. As this was written, only a few of the events had been run off, but the United States was already going places. Interesting is the fact that two colored lads won the 100 meter dash for this country and gave the U. S. points in an event in which she was particularly weak four years ago.

Well, even if the United States can't collect the war debts, the least she can do is win the Olympics in a big way.

People have a habit of looking at strange license plates and saying, "Oh, British Columbia" or Idaho or something like that. Yesterday we saw a stranger one than those. Yep, it was a Wisconsin license plate. The date, folks, was 1930. (A. D.) When a guy can get away with old license plates for TWO years, he's getting away with something.

They go up and down the ladder in a hurry in the song-writing biz, sometimes. For example, the lad who wrote the lyrics for "Looking at the World Through Rose-Colored Glasses," "Jealous," "Highways are Happy Ways" and others (you remember 'em from four or five years ago) is now dead. He wound up dead the other day as the result of pneumonia, a few other disorders and quantities of prohibition likker.

Not only did he finish up that way, but he ended his days absolutely broke. Unless his friends do something for him, he'll be buried in a pauper's grave.

Nothing like this column to cheer you up on rainy days. Nossir!

At least, on days like yesterday, it's easy to give up playing golf as you swore you were going to do a while ago.

Professor Piccard's stratosphere balloon is going up again this year. We're gonna mail the professor our Amalgamated Gadgets stock certificates.

QUESTION

A tiny insect on the wall,
Doomed for a few brief hours to crawl,
Sensing the blow I meant to give,
Put up a valiant fight to live.
It scurried wildly to and fro
In self-protection, just as though
An insect plans a lifetime through
And has important work to do.

That creature black and very small,
Its home a crevice in the wall,
Born in a few brief hours to die
And scarcely to behold the sky;
Knowing not sun, nor moon, nor stars,
Nor cattle at the pasture bars,
Nor love, nor friends, and all they give,
Still strangely found it good to live.

Had it but chosen to remain
It could have died without a pain.
But no! In some strange way it felt
A crushing blow would there be dealt.
And finding life supremely good
It scurried off as fast it could
And with high courage chose to stay
To die an insect's natural way.

Thought I if bugs and beetles here,
Who dwell in such a narrow sphere
And hardly know the day from night
For life so valiantly fight,
What is it moves a man, to whom
God gives the world with all its bloom,
Love, friendship and the things sublime,
To wish to die before his time?

Looking Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

Wednesday, August 2, 1922

Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, died at his home in Baddeck, N. S., the previous night.

Mr. and Mrs. Wenzel Hassman and son Harold, returned the previous evening from a visit with Milwaukee and Chicago friends.

Miss Lorraine Lawe had returned from Green Bay where she was the guest of Miss Dorothy De Lane.

Miss Florence C. Day returned the previous Monday from a five weeks' vacation spent in New York.

A son was born the previous Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Reider, 1170 Franklin.

A marriage license was issued to William Engel and Christine Johann, both of Appleton.

Dr. J. D. O'Connor, H. P. Buck and Oscar Kuntz were spending a day at Keshena on a fishing trip.

Miss Laura Schultz was spending a day in Milwaukee visiting relatives.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Wednesday, August 7, 1907

A marriage license was issued the previous day to Joseph E. Whitman, Kaskaskia and Mayme Hendrick, Appleton.

The marriage of Miss Elsie Boer, Appleton, to Paul Dembrowsky, Milwaukee, took place at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph church.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Schallert had returned to their home in Appleton after a two weeks' visit in Milwaukee and Chicago.

Miss Hilda Heid was spending the week with friends and relatives at Green Bay.

Miss Elsie Koffend left that morning for a ten days' visit with friends in Milwaukee.

Carl and George Stansbury left the preceding day with George Hewitt for a motor trip of several days.

W. N. Kimball had returned to his home after a few days' visit at Shawano.

The marriage of Miss Pauline Maack, Algoma, and Matt J. Hruska, Appleton, took place at noon that day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Braemer, 586 Second-ave.

Personal Health Talks

THIRD AND LAST LESSON IN COLONS PHYSIOLOGY

In actual practice the so called nutrient enema is a gesture of the past. We regular doctors are beginning to learn physiology. Nowadays we entertain and foster no delusions that it is possible to feed a patient in this way when the natural ingestion of food is interrupted.

To be sure, it is still a common practice to administer saline solution (salt dissolved in water) by this method. We know that water is freely absorbed from the colon or large intestine. Possibly some salt dissolved in water is absorbed. Among surgeons—who, as a class, are generally pretty dumb and unskilled in the science and art of therapeutics or treatment other than operative, it is customary to add some dextrose or glucose to the water administered by enema. This is done on the theory that some glucose or dextrose is absorbed from the large bowel into the blood.

Recent investigation of the question has failed to furnish satisfactory proof that glucose or dextrose so administered is absorbed. Accurate scientific tests show no appreciable increase in the amount of dextrose in the blood after the careful administration of enemas containing various amounts of dextrose in solution. Most of the sugar so administered was recovered from the dejecta after the lapse of 24 hours. But not all of it. The investigators concluded that a small quantity of the dextrose in the upper part of the large bowel by reverse peristalsis, and remain there to undergo slow fermentation or later return to the lower part of the colon. The practical conclusion we must draw from these precise studies is that the practice of administering glucose or dextrose in enemas is of questionable value so far as the nourishment of the patient is concerned, tho it may be as useful as are enemas of salt solution for providing needed water to the body.

For our particular purpose the lesson to be drawn from these physiological facts is a simple one and a sound one: We need never worry about the absorption of any harmful waste products, alleged poisons or real poisons of any kind from the large intestine. Such a thing can happen in the presence of grave pathological lesions or injuries, of course, but not in the circumstances of every day life.

Don't let the charlatans, the humbug diet experts and the fancy nostrum exploiters get your goat. When they get onto the line about the "toxins" or "products of putrefaction" which they would have you think responsible for imaginary "auto-intoxication," give 'em a big horse laugh and ask them to cite the scientific authority for their vicious teaching. They'll be stumped there, tho of course they can stump out all kinds of names if you let 'em give you opinions or arbitrary assertions in lieu of scientific facts.

This is my last word on the subject for the present. I hope these little lessons in physiology will help some of you glum birds who have taken the old quack line too seriously.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
The Dentist Who Couldn't Eat Eggs
I failed to see the logic in your article about the Dentist Who Couldn't Eat Eggs. If there is all-burden in the urine doesn't that show the patient can't metabolize such food, just as sugar in the urine shows the diabetic can't metabolize carbohydrates? Who has proved it absurd to cut down the intake of albuminous food in such a case? (M. L.)

Answer—The point is that no one has shown that there is any such relation as you surmise between the intake in albuminous or nitrogenous food and the presence of albumen in the urine. On the contrary we know that patients whose urine contains albumen can and do metabolize or utilize eggs, meats and milk and cheese without particular difficulty and as a rule should not try to avoid such food. The absurdity in the case of the dentist lies in his ready assumption that his little knowledge is sufficient. I printed the article because I fancied many laymen have similar misconceptions. There is a certain class of laymen, viscerates, as I call them, who will not and can not learn that old theory that meat eating or the use of nitrogenous foods in the diet is hard on the kidneys has been discarded because it has proved false.

Students Need Physical Training
One fellow in our class says that every morning on rising he notices a sudden wave of dizziness. On his mentioning this it developed that most of the members of the class have a similar experience. Has it any significance? (O. W.)

Answer—The pulse rate of a normal person is 20 beats in the minute greater in the erect posture than when he lies down. The blood pressure, too, is increased. If the heart and circulation is inefficient, the sudden standing from the horizontal posture is more likely to distress one. Perhaps the young persons who notice the slight dizziness should devote more attention to getting physical training. However, normal adults may feel momentarily dizzy on such sudden rising. Sit on edge of bed and lean down as to lace your shoe a moment first. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE canvas that had left the ground and now was sailing 'round and round, still held the band of Tynies. They were hanging on real tight.

At first they all were very scared. Soon Scouty said, "I guess we've fared real well and, if we stay up here, I think we'll be all right."

"This spread of canvas seems just like a magic carpet. I'm a fike who likes things that are thrilling. This is thrilling as can be."

"We don't know where we're heading for, as through the air we gently soar, but we may soon land some place which we'll all be glad to see."

"Well, I'm still frightened quite a bit," said Duncy. "Cause, from where I sit, all I can see is ground below, and it's quite far from here. If this canvas decides to stop, we'll very likely take a flop, and then what's going to happen? That is what fills me with fear."

"Why look ahead and worry, lad?" said Windy. "Gee, you should be glad that, thus far, we are safe and sound. Let's just hope for the best."

"Right now we're floating as the breeze, enjoying life with utmost ease. We may as well all stretch right out and take a little rest."

The Tynies tried to take a nap. The canvas, though, would flip and flap and Cappy said, "There's too much noise. I simply cannot snooze."

"I'll stay awake and be on hand to watch for some good place to land. Be set to act real quick, 'cause we may have no time to lose."

The next thing that the Tynies knew, brave Cappy shouted, "All of you get on your knees. We're sinking now. A chimney is in sight. The top of it is nice and flat, so we will try to land on that." And that's just what the Tynies did. It all turned out all right. (Copyright 1932 NEA Service Inc.) (The Tynies get all black in the next story.)

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Political historians in the capital, ever eager and alert to find analogous situations and parallels in politics, have unearthed one having to do with Al Smith and the place the Brown Derby occupies in the scheme of things at the present.

Smith, they say, in announcing that he will support the democratic ticket without mentioning the name of Roosevelt, merely took a leaf out of another great democrat's book—one from his own state and whose career was very similar to his own.

His name was David B. Hill. Hill was lieutenant governor of New York when Grover Cleveland became president in 1885. Hill went in as governor, was elected to two subsequent terms and finally to the United States senate in 1892.

In that year Hill wanted to be president and sought the nomination. He was opposed by Cleveland, who though defeated when he sought his second term, was a favorite as his party's nominee for the third time.

All Eyes on Hill
Hill lost out, Cleveland getting the nomination on the first ballot with 6174 votes—104 more than the necessary two-thirds required to nominate. Hill received 114 (Smith got 190) on the deciding ballot at Chicago.

After the convention everybody was speculating as to what Hill would do. Immediately after the convention was over he came back to Washington and resumed his seat in the senate. A newspaper report of June 23, 1892, made this comment:

"... There was nothing in his appearance to indicate that he was suffering any acute pangs of disappointment."

To newspapermen "he declined to say anything further than that he felt deeply grateful for the loyal manner in which the New York delegation in the convention had stood by him, and he appreciated their loyalty and devotion to the cause."

That was all.

I Am a Democrat
However, a bit later when questioned about the nominee and what his course would be in the campaign, he made the statement:

"I am a democrat."

That statement became as famous in those days as Coolidge's celebrated "I do not choose..." Thereafter it was always linked with his name.

Hill did not go out and work for the success of the ticket. He took no part in Cleveland's campaign. He merely voted in November and voted straight.

But the political historians must wait. Cleveland was elected in 1892. A Roosevelt victory in 1932 is necessary for the completion of this parallel.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York — Friends of William Zorach, the painter, recall with amusement an episode of his early years in this country.

The newcomer to New York, seeking the recognition he has achieved, signed all of his canvases "W. Zorach."

Some of his intimates advised against the use of this name in his professional career over here. They argued that it sounded to foreign ears should be Americanized, or that he should employ some new name which would more closely identify him with the country whose favor he sought.

Zorach considered their counsel for a few days and saw the light. His next pictures were signed "Finkelstein."

His advisers permitted a return to the Zorach signature without further comment.

Appetizers

Why is it? Glass tanks with fish swimming about, and troughs of live, kicking lobsters and crabs in the windows of seafood restaurants just naturally whet one's appetite. Yet a restaurant that dared exhibit ham and beef on the hoof would only repulse the hungry.

Which reminds me: there's a dining place in the East Fifties which pretends to be very nifty. It is decorated along the tropical motif, with palms, straw and such stuff all about.

I was invited to a party there a year ago. In the window there is a stuffed monkey in an artificial coconut tree. I never have wanted to go near the place again.

Pictures are altogether different. Beefsteak Charlie's unpretentious establishment, which holds the favor of the sporting and theatrical gentry, features the finest gallery of steeplechase horse photographs I've ever seen.

These pictures are of nasty spills, too, with horse and rider scattered all over the turf after the jump. They pack a punch and in some wise disturb the beholder. Yet these views of fine horse-flesh never lessened my enjoyment of one of Charlie's steak sandwiches.

Want A Dog?

Bigger and better dogs are being turned in at the Bide-A-Wee Home this year.

Regretful owners make the earnest plea that new homes be found for their pets where they will be supported in the manner to which they are accustomed. Owners have the assurance that the pups will be entrusted only to persons approved by the home officials.

The Bide-A-Wee has no difficulty in placing the better dogs. Many persons are on its waiting list, ready and anxious to get a fine dog for practically nothing. The only charge is a negligible fee for leash and muzzle, which goes toward the institution's upkeep.

Naturally, the larger breeds with corresponding larger appetites are caused many dog owners to seek the help of the home this year. Some have told the officials that this method of disposing of a friend does not seem such a cold proposition as selling him for cash—however much they might need the cash.

Why do the Chinese prefer the top floors of buildings to their Joss houses? Because they believe their places of worship should be as near as possible to the Celestial One. Or, so they say down in Chinatown.

Today's Anniversary

AMERICANS TAKE FISMES
On Aug. 3, 1918, advancing American troops occupied Fismes, in the Marne sector of the western front, to climax a day of great progress for the allies on a 45-mile front.

Virtually the entire Alsine-Vesle front between Soissons and Rheims was now in the hands of the allies. During the day, French and American forces captured more than 160 square miles of territory.

German losses during the great battle which had been raging nearly three weeks were believed higher than in any similar period during the war.

Equipment taken during the day by French and American soldiers was valued at more than $5,0

Weakest Link In Railway Is Russia's Guard

Advance Preparations Needed to Move Troops Over It

BY STANLEY P. RICHARDSON
Moscow.—The Trans-Siberian railroad, the only line which links up the whole Soviet Union from the Baltic to the Pacific, is at once the weakest and the strongest factor in the nation's transportation system, from a military standpoint.

This paradoxical fact is being considered here in the light of recent Japanese actions in Manchuria. There is evidence that such moves as the Japanese seizure on June 29 of Chinese customs at Manchuria, on Manchuria's western border, and the more recent taking over of Russian docks and warehouses at Harbin, are straining soviet patience.

Lesson in Czar's Defeat

The railroad is weakest because if war comes in the Far East it would be difficult to move sufficient troops and supplies over it unless there was time for advance preparations. Historians lay part of the responsibility for czarist Russia's defeat by Japan to the railroad's inability to rush large bodies of troops to Manchuria.

Profiting by that lesson, the soviet authorities began reinforcing their already strong military base in the Far East as soon as the war scare was occasioned here by Japanese occupation of Manchuria. Now Red Army leaders assert that the Soviet Union is ready to repel an invasion—a possibility about which the press here warns unceasingly.

The military strength of the Red Army, paradoxically, in the place which might be considered its greatest weakness—the fact that the eastern end of the line, stretching 1,500 miles from Chita to Vladivostok, is only single track.

It has been left that way deliberately as a piece of military strategy. Would Hamper Joe

This makes of the territory lying between Chita and Vladivostok a sort of bottleneck. Therein lies the strategy. An official of the commissariat for transportation explained it this way:

"Suppose an enemy invaded soviet territory from the east. He naturally would make first for the Trans-Siberian, which is the only means by which he could hope to advance. But a single track line could not accommodate the troops and supplies he would have to move.

"Consider, therefore, that if the single track is somewhat inconvenient to us, how much more disadvantageous it would be as an instrument for an invading force in a hostile country.

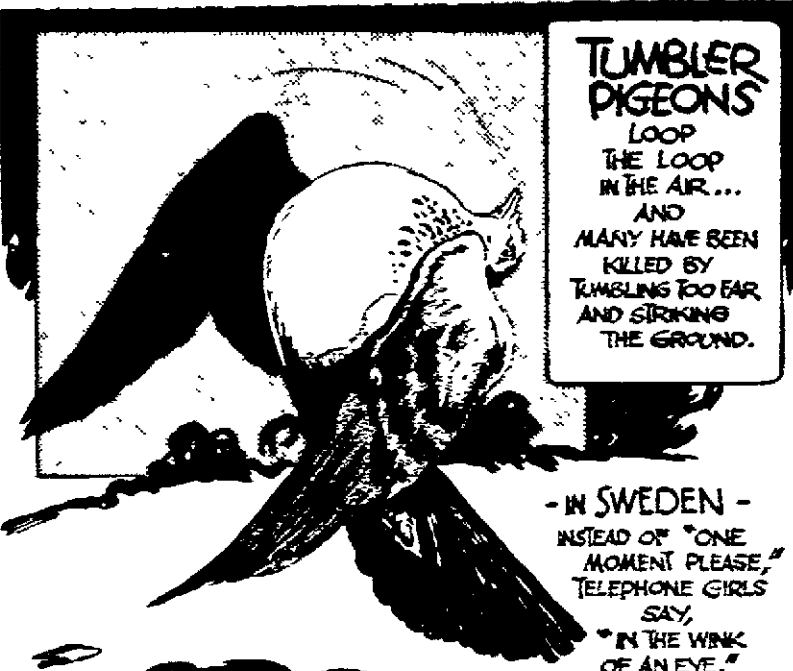

"Japan tried to take Siberia once when the allies intervened there right under the bolshevik revolution. But her troops nearly froze to death because there was no adequate transportation. Before the Japanese plan on getting that far again they had better recall that experience.

"No, I think we'll let that single track stay for a while."

Appleton Yacht Club to Discuss Regatta Plans

The monthly meeting of the Appleton Yacht club is scheduled for 8 o'clock Thursday evening in the club rooms on S. Pierce-ave. Detailed plans for the second annual regatta to be held on Little Lake Butte des Morts on Sunday, Aug. 14 will be outlined by Paul R. Stevens, chairman of the committee in charge. Other plans and reports also will be discussed.

WILSON'S NATURE'S SHOP

MANY PIGEON FANCIERS believe that aviators learned to loop the loop from observing the Tumbler pigeons in flight. The tumbler does the loop exactly as an airplane does. There are several variations, however. Some birds make but one turn at a time, some two or three, while others put in fancy side slips. Then there are some which fly very high into the air and descend in a series of backward revolutions, sometimes making one too many and crashing against the earth?

Regular Republicans Scored by Dammann

Beaver Dam.—Secretary of State Theodore Dammann, candidate for reelection said in an address here today that the only issue of the present campaign in which regular Republicans are interested is income taxes because "they want somebody else to pay the bill."

"The only thing in the Kohler administration that the stalwarts talk about is the veto of the Hilt income tax bill which saved great wealth approximately $4,500,000 annually," Dammann said.

Declaring that as bookkeeper for the state he is in a position to know facts, the secretary said that the LaFollette administration "has made a very substantial reduction in the burden upon general property taxpayers."

"The reduction this year could have been even greater had all the economies of the state administration been passed on by local officials to the taxpayer," he said. "Some of these local officials refused to comply with the request of the administration that the economies made possible by state legislation be used to relieve the taxpayer and not to increase local expenditures."

New York.—Alfred Jensen was arrested for impersonating an officer because he had told a motorist he was a "cop." The court discharged him. "There is nothing in law," the court held, "that would indicate that a 'cop' means an officer."

Bi-Lateral Pacts Engross Empire Trade Conclave

Four Major Proposals Listed in Program Debated at Ottawa

BY FRANK L. WELLES
Ottawa, Ont.—(P)—Bi-lateral agreements between the dominions and preference rates for empire wheat in Great Britain were set up today as two of the most important possible results of the imperial trade conference.

The program, which includes four other major items, appeared to have grown out of an interview granted by Premier Bennett of Canada yesterday and a session of the British delegation which lasted well into last night.

The other four objectives are:

1. A curb upon Russian trade with Great Britain.
2. Creation of an empire bank to clear empire trade balances.
3. Freeer dominion markets for British products which do not compete with home industries.
4. Lower preferential tariffs within the empire.

Some observers interpreted Premier Bennett's interview, which was something of a surprise, as an indication that he might have given the British delegation, which went into its conference almost at the same time, the direct reply it has sought for two weeks as to how much of an opening Canada is willing to give British steel and cotton manufacturers for a market in Canada.

A large part of any such advantage would be at the expense of United States steel and textile interests.

Canadian Demand

Although he was somewhat evasive as to whether he preferred a wheat quota, or a preferential tariff on wheat, the premier was regarded as having made it pretty clear that Canada expects one or the other in the British market. He said both had been discussed but no conclusion reached.

A quota system would mean a definite allotment of the British wheat trade to grain producers in the empire, but probably without a price guarantee, while a preferential tariff would seek to guarantee the world price plus the amount of the tariff on non-empire grain.

Referring to a preferential tariff system within the empire, the premier pointed out that the situation is different from that in the United States where none of the states raises tariff barriers against the others. The prevailing condition, he said, necessitates an all-around readjustment of import duties.

Canada is not so much concerned, he said, about the effect of British preferential tariffs on competition

Theatre Manager

"Level Robbery", featuring Kay Francis and William Powell will open Managers' week at the Appleton theatre, Aug. 7 to 13. This week is being observed throughout the entire Warner Bros. theatre circuit with this picture and "Miss Pinkerton" the movie story based on Mary Roberts Rhinehart's novel by L. B. Anderson. Above, is local manager. In connection with the week will be given to the manager showing the larger number of tickets. Various local organizations are sponsoring the two features for the week in Appleton.

from foreign countries as she is with her own interests. He made it clear, however, that he believed the conference should steer clear of any restrictions equivalent to an embargo since the question of world prosperity revolves around a revival of international trade.

Among Canada's private trade agreements with Australia, New Zealand, Newfoundland and the protectorate one with South Africa, he said the conference probably would develop many such bi-lateral treaties, some of which might or might not develop into multi-lateral agreements, with the "blessing" of the empire.

W.C.T.U. to Hear Woman From Kansas

MRS. JOHN R. E. MILLER, an Appleton woman who formerly lived in Arkansas City, Kansas, will give a talk on Conditions in Kansas and the Attitude Toward the Eighteenth Amendment at the meeting of Women's Christian Temperance Union at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Sophia Schaefer, 921 N. Morrison-st. Special music will be given by Miss Irene Albrecht.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller returned recently from a two weeks' motor trip to Kansas, stopping in Wichita where Mr. Miller took part in a shoot sponsored by the Wichita Gun club. He took third place in the 200 yard shoot for which he was awarded a bronze medal.

Discussion on the opening of the bowling alleys took place at the meeting of Zion Lutheran Brotherhood of Zion Lutheran church Tuesday night at the parish school auditorium. William Groth was admitted as a new member. Twenty-one members were present. A social hour followed the business meeting, the committee including Alfred Kolberg, chairman, Harvey Klitzke, Herman Lemke, and Harvey Kuschel.

St. Paul Ladies Aid society of St. Paul Lutheran church will meet for business and a social gathering at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the church basement. Mrs. John Meyer is chairman of the committee of hostesses which includes Mrs. Elmer Korth, Mrs. Louise Lemberg, Mrs. Otto Lutzow, Mrs. Alfred Lecker, Mrs. Charles Maas, Mrs. Herman Meinberg, Mrs. Clarence Meltz, Mrs. Ernest Moertz and Mrs. Louis Nieland.

A social meeting will be held by Zion Lutheran society of Zion Lutheran church at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Erb park. In the event of rain, the society will go to the home of Mrs. Louis Thies, 330, E. Spring-st.

Each member will bring her own lunch and a cup for coffee which will be served at the park.

An outdoor meeting at Pierce park will entertain members of the Missionary society of Trinity English Lutheran church and their friends at 2:30 Thursday afternoon. Each woman will bring her own lunch. A social hour will take place after the business session. Mrs. R. C. Breitung will be in charge of games.

The young people of Memorial Presbyterian church will sponsor an ice cream lawn social from 7 to 9:30 Thursday evening, the L. C. Sleeper home, 919 E. North-st. The public is invited. There will be music, and a sale of hand made Chinese articles will be held in connection with the social.

Parties

A group of friends and relatives were entertained Sunday evening at the home of Miss Ethel Hooymann in honor of her birthday anniversary. Cards and dancing provided the entertainment. Those present were the Misses Rita Murphy, Mae Van Hoof, Myrtle and Ruth Moser, Mary and Irene Appleton, Irene Garvey, Irene Weyenberg, Margaret Coffey, George Van Vree, Laura Coffey, Eileen and Marie School, Agnes Weiland, Cecil Verhagen, Verona and Florence Daul, Gertrude Wolde, Roseline, Irene, and Virginia Gonnering, Gladys Little, and Marie Stein, Appleton; Agnes Vandehey, Kimberly; Escher Krahn, Isabelle Stephani and Phyllis Fries, Black Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Herman E. Contract Players to Plan for Fall Tourney

Appleton Contract Bridge Players association will meet sometime next week, according to Dr. George E. Massart, president, to arrange the program for the fall bridge tournament. The association held their first tournament this year in the spring and early summer. No dates or plans have been organized as yet for the fall tournament, which will be planned at the meeting.

Rohm Family Holds Reunion Here Sunday

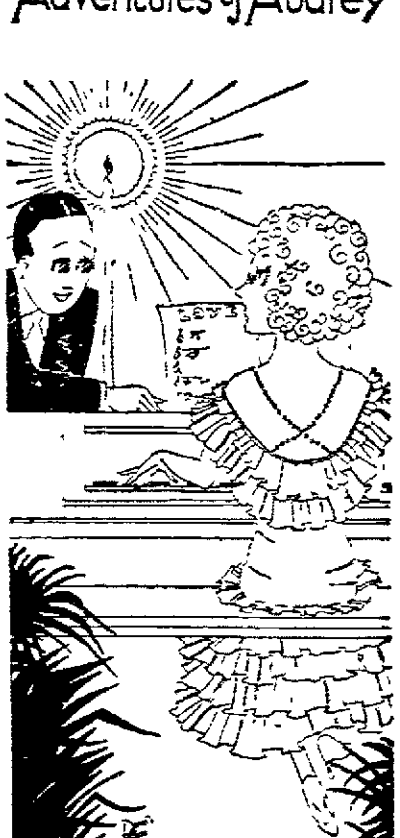

The annual reunion of the Rohm family will be conducted next Sunday at Erb park. It was announced today. Approximately 200 members of the family from all parts of the United States gather for the annual affair. They come from Idaho, Colorado, California and other western states. Dinner and supper will be served at the park, and games and stunts will furnish entertainment.

Lassen National Park, Calif.—The butterflies are blocking traffic out of Erb park. Millions of orange winged flutters swarm here, obscuring the view of motorists and blanketing their radiators.

Prizes at cards were awarded to Mrs. J. Homblette, Mrs. Charles Selig, and Mrs. Max Egert. The club will meet next Tuesday with Mrs. Henry Miller, E. Winnebago-st.

Mrs. Charles Lorenz will be chairman of the card party to be given by Ladies' Aid society of St. Joseph church at 2:30 Thursday afternoon in the parish hall. Schafkopf and plumpskopf will be played.

Sigman is Speaker at Moose Meet

SAMUEL SIGMAN discussed the bonus marchers in Washington, D. C., and the attitude of the public toward them at the meeting of Loyal Order of Moose Tuesday night at Moose hall. Mahlon Peterson, St. Cloud, Fla., a former member of Appleton lodge, was a visitor and gave a short talk on his work in Florida and his affiliation with the Moose. About 35 members were present.

A report on the recent state convention was given by E. W. Bates and E. E. Cahall. Plans for attending the picnic to be given by Green Bay lodge next Sunday at De Pere were made by the members, and it is expected that about 25 or 30 will go from Appleton. The Appleton Moose baseball team which is entered in the fraternal league will play the second degree team of Kaukauna lodge during the afternoon. A fish fry will be a feature of the picnic.

Discussion on the national convention of United Spanish War Veterans which will be held August 21 to 25 at Milwaukee took place at the meeting of Charles O. Baer camp, Spanish War Veterans, Tuesday night at the armory. About 20 members were present.

During the past four years the National league has made more home runs than the American. Total for the National league is 2749; for the American, 2328.

Cream Face Frequently In Summer

BY ELSIE PIERCE

The incision thing about wrinkles is the fact that they are scarcely noticeable at first. They etch their way around the eyes, mouth, throat slowly but surely. Just like old age, it doesn't come overnight. You slipped a little yesterday, a little more today and the day after tomorrow or several years from then it will probably die. So with wrinkles. You wake up one fine morning (or perhaps it's a dull day) and find a few deep wrinkles staring back at you from the mirror, scaring you into a quick rush for the skinfood jar or anti-wrinkle oil bottle.

We Beauty Editors dislike to give these "prevention preachings" quite as much as readers like to take them. But they are necessary and given in the hope that eventually they will bring pressure to bear. If eventually, why not now may seem true, but it's a hopeful phrase.

Take sun-squaring, for instance. We all do it. Look up at the sun ever so shyly from the corner of your eye, or cut on the wide expanse of white sand at the beach, or across the surf with its shining sunbeams riding the crests of waves. Like as not, you're squinting. And the constant contraction and expansion of the delicate tissue around the eyes, soon exhausts some of the skin's elasticity. Fine surface lines become deeper and sometimes change to folds. You can prevent these easily, but you can't erase them quickly once they are in. They linger long. They are the bane of every woman's existence, for though they may be borne of neglect, they are regarded as signs of age.

A Little Cream Every Day

A little cream every day will keep wrinkles at bay. There's a beauty slogan worth remembering and practicing. A rich, emollient cream, or a little lubricating wrinkle oil patted gently over the delicate skin around the eyes, every day, or several times a day. Learn how to mold gently, but firmly, pressing the lifting strokes from the corner of the nose out to the temple both above and below the eyes. A little cotton compress wrung out of hot water and placed over the eyes for a few minutes, followed by patting with a little oil or cream makes an excellent treatment. Do it before you retire and leave a little on as long as you like, overnight if you can. Pat it on in the morning and leave on while you take your bath or dress; again at noon before going out, whenever you have an opportunity. Before and after motoring or lolling about on the beach be sure to use oil or cream, or better yet a little wrinkle oil followed by cream over any lines and wrinkles, and let me repeat around the eyes. Even the oil type of skin that needs no cream over the rest of face and neck must have this lubricating around the eyes.

If you follow this simple treatment you won't have a crop of squint lines and wrinkles (and let me assure you that they are every bit as aging and discouraging as any other variety.)

The eyes need special care during the summer. Eye lotions, make-up, exercise and complete care are all discussed in my new bulletin on Eyes. A self-addressed, stamped envelope will bring this bulletin to you. Address Elsie Pierce care of the Post-Crescent.

Your Birthday

BY MARY BLAKE

"LEO"

If August 4th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:25 a. m., and from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.

The planetary forecast for August 4th is "unsettled." A dreary atmosphere during the early part of the day will be followed by a complete clearing up. Morning things "put through" in the morning will not turn out satisfactorily, whilst the afternoon affairs will be "O.K."

The child born on this August 4th will be inclined to be a little bold, somewhat independent and defiantly stubborn. It will have a very strong character and a difficult one to discipline. Experience will be its best teacher. It may be reached through its heart and managed beautifully by those who take the pains to understand its true nature.

The world will always like you, if born on August 4th, because of your thoughtfulness — the things you have no need to do which are done in your name. You do your bit and a little bit more.

WHAT DO MOVIE STARS DO WITH ALL THEIR MONEY?

BY DAN THOMAS

Hollywood—What do the movie stars do with their money? A great many people have wondered about that for a long time. But right now it's the Los Angeles county tax assessor who is the most perplexed of all.

According to the personal property assessments for the current year, a great many of our reputedly wealthy screen stars really have very few possessions. Just what they have done with those four-figure weekly pay checks is hard to say.

Charlie Chaplin has more wealth in ready cash and negotiable securities than any other person in this county according to the records. His stocks and bonds at the present market prices are valued at $7,687,570. Added to this is $298,600 in cash and solvent credits and a $700 automobile.

He denies that. He is worth so much, however, placing his wealth at approximately one-fourth the recorded figure.

That doesn't sound like much of a car for a man in Chaplin's position, does it? But wait! Greta Garbo's car has a value of only $220, according to the assessor. Aside from that auto, all she has is $122,010 in stocks and bonds.

And as for poor Gloria Swanson—well, she's just about ready to shed tears for her. After all the millions she has earned, the only thing she has in the world as far as the tax assessor could determine is a gold-en harp valued at $350. Wonder who really owns her automobile and all that beautiful furniture in her Beverly Hills mansion?

Nor is that the worst. There's nothing to do but to break right out crying for poverty-stricken Constance Bennett. This charming young actress who has earned as high as $30,000 a week has no personal wealth at all outside of furniture assessed at $200.

What a contrast between Connie and her sister, Joan. Joan never has been within reach of Connie in regard to salary. Yet she has one of the classic cars in Hollywood, judging from its assessed value of $1,100. Besides that, she has a piano valued at $2,000.

I don't know just what Connie does for transportation because I happen to know that she owns neither roller skates nor a bicycle. Douglas Fairbanks owns stocks and bonds listed at $698,000, but the bulk of his property is in real estate, as is that of Mary Pickford.

courteous, kind and nice to people to whom you are under no obligations, beyond those of common decency. Your only payment may be your own inward contentment which comes from giving of self. Your kindnesses are often misunderstood, and you even receive "snubs" for little acts of simple grace.

If you are a man, you are a good workman. You are no clock watcher or time killer, and when on the job attend strictly to duty. You will have to battle for existence against fierce competition and jealous rivals. You can hold your own, however, in your own particular line because you are no pretender. If you have your own business, trade or profession, you are not above doing the necessary details and you know how to pick your helpers.

You are straight in the best sense of the word, a person of transparent honesty and purpose. There are probably few "skeletons in your cupboard." You have strong ideals and convictions; you try to maintain the former, and are free to give expression to the latter. Your social accomplishments are many and varied.

Successful People Born on August 4th:

- 1—Peter Buel Porter, Secretary of war under J. Q. Adams.
- 2—Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, Secretary of state under Arthur.
- 3—Lovell H. Rousseau, Criminal lawyer in Lewisburg, Ky.
- 4—Oliver P. Morton, a governor of Indiana.
- 5—Silas G. Pratt, composer.
- 6—Sir Harry Lauder, actor.

(Copyright, 1932)

Here are two Hollywood movie stars who are "paupers" so far as the Los Angeles county tax assessor is concerned. Gloria Swanson, who has made millions, pays taxes on a harp, while Constance Bennett, inset, pays taxes on $200 worth of furniture and that's all.

Strategy of Bridge is Equal to That of War

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The play of the cards at the Contract table bears a striking resemblance to the movement of troops in campaign. The plans of the Declarer and the defending players, made during the bidding and confirmed following the first lead, may well be likened to the staff work of the great war machines. The actual conflict—in which sometimes quality is pitted against quality and at other times mass simply overwhelms the ranking cards—is comparable with the tactics of actual warfare. This, in large measure, accounts for the tremendous thrill which players receive from seeing their plans of campaign, carefully worked out, brought to full success, and which causes them to give perhaps grudging recognition to clever tactical maneuvers by the defending players.

The other day I witnessed a very interesting hand in a Rubber Bridge game in a New York club. The hand was as follows:

South—Dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

♠ K 7 5
♥ K 9 7 2
♣ 10 8 2

♠ Q 10 6 3 2

THE STORY OF SUE

By Marjory Hale

GRACE HEARS SOME UNFORTUNATE WORDS

JIMMY was too proud to ask for you, Grace," Sue answered. But he wants you dreadfully. I know it. When men are hurt they always want the woman they love.

The argument would be ineffectual, she knew. Grace didn't believe that Jimmy loved her any longer, or that he ever really had. But it was an argument.

"How do you know he wants Mrs. Webster, anyway?" Sue insisted. "He said not to call anyone."

"He's unconscious again, isn't he?" Grace asked.

"Yes, you'll come, won't you?" Sue said so. "I'll get a taxi—Jimmy and the car."

Hanging back, Sue saw Jimmy's car where she had parked it. Suddenly she was aware that it was the same make as the one Jack drove. Not the same model, though. Jack's was a long, low roadster. Jimmy's was a standard passenger coupe.

"But the men might have been relying on the name of the make," she thought. From far off another car was drifting. She was remembering the night when she and Jimmy had gone bumping down the river road in his old-fashioned, rickety car, and had met Jack in the long sports model. Jimmy had been poor, then. Jack had been wealthy. Now Jack was put out of his father's office and house, and his position was gone. Jimmy was climbing to the top. Even on that night long ago she had known that she was going to love Jack Thornton—that she could never care for Jimmy Hayden as she had once.

"Grace is coming," Sue told the physician. "You'll stay until she gets here, won't you?"

He nodded. Sally, who had changed to an orange knit dress, smoky, yet vibrant, and a small beret that matched was pulling on long brown suede gloves. Her hair was a burnished red-gold and her blue eyes were so heavily made up that they were startlingly dark.

"Well," she asked as Sue stopped in surprise.

"We want to send you away. We'll leave I'm sure Jimmy can be moved to our house."

Dr. Raynor shook his head at Sue, from a vantage point beyond Sally, and signaled that she should let the girl go.

"She'll go anyway. It's the finding of her hiding place that is scaring her out," he said as soon as he could.

"Why is she hiding?" Sue asked.

"I don't know. Let her go—if she still insists."

The soft thud of snow on the windows and roof, growing heavier as the afternoon began, was the only sound in the cabin as Sally went on with her preparations.

The sound of the taxicab broke the silence. "It's Grace, I think," Sue said. "Jimmy is still asleep. That's good." She opened the door. Grace was pale and her green eyes were enormous in her tired face. But the black close-fitting hat and the long black coat were smart and new.

Sue smiled at Sue, and good watching the recumbent figure resting among the pillows and blankets on the couch.

"Has he said anything about me yet?" she asked at last.

"He hasn't talked," Sue stopped for the man's lips were framing words.

"Oh gosh, Natalie, you can't go to a woman and tell her you're walking out on her. Just wait a little while. Please, Nat."

"I don't believe I'll stay," Grace said softly, and as suddenly was gone.

Love is that Which Dulls Judgment and Blinds Eyes

BY DOROTHY DIX

What is love? It is the greatest thing in the world. Having it, we are rich. Lacking it, we are poor, though we have the wealth of the Indies. It is the one thing that money cannot buy and that the poor possess oftener than the rich.

It is the one thing that we crave above all others, yet which we take less care to preserve than anything else. Often we throw it away in mere wantonness.

Love is a mystery past all finding out for none of us know why we love, nor why we do not love, or cease to love, nor can our heads speed up our hearts even so much as a single pulsebeat.

Love is the great consolation prize that God gave to man when He put suffering and sorrow and tears into the world.

Love is the thing that makes us able to see some perfectly commonplace man and woman as radiant figures of romance and to perceive in them charms and virtues that they do not possess.

Love is the miracle-worker that turns an ashy-haired hair into platinum blonde, that makes a pug nose retracted and piquant; that transforms a living skeleton into a willowy figure and that turns a feathered into merely pleasing plumpness.

It is what enables a youth and maiden to endure each other's society during a long, hot summer's day and still ask for more conversation.

It is what makes another's faults and peculiarities dear to us just because they are his or hers.

It is what enables us to believe the things we want to believe about the beloved, even when we know they are lies, and to trust against the one who has betrayed us a thousand times.

It is what makes us ask for more punishment from one who has beaten us black and blue spiritually and to kiss the hand that strikes us.

It is the hallucination that makes us think that the sun is always shining and the daybells ringing if some one man or woman is present, and that everything is dark and gloomy and flat if he or she is absent.

It is what enables us never to run out of conversation with some brawling individual who never has an original idea in his or her life.

It is what makes a chartered accountant figure out that two can live cheaper than one; a college professor think that a moron is his soulmate and a woman believe that she can reform a drunkard.

Love is what makes a man think that some girl, who is just as like other girls as peas in a pod, is entirely different from any other member of her sex and possesses charms and virtues on which she holds a monopoly.

It is what robs a man of his judgment, and that makes a cultured man think that a girl who never read him an intellectual companion, that causes a hard-driving business man to sell himself the idea that a flapper young enough to be his daughter is marrying him for himself alone and that causes a poor man to believe that an extravagant, clothes-mad girl is just the wife he needs for a helpmeet.

It is love that makes the bachelor who has spent his life avoiding the traps that women have set for him, suddenly fall into a pit that something with blue eyes and naturally curly hair and a peaches-and-cream complexion has dug for him just before his eyes.

It is what makes a rounder suddenly go domestic and give up his golf for nooning the kitchen garden.

GOOD LATE TODAY

By Emily Post

THE FUNDAMENTALS OF BEHAVIOR

Dear Mrs. Post: I don't think your recipe for permanent charm, given in your column lately, is easy to follow. The more I think about it the less easy it becomes. I wish you would explain how an older person can hope to keep meekly and enthusiastically.

Answer: I never said it was easy. For that matter, very few things developing to character are easy. Perhaps I can make what I meant by fitness and enthusiasm clearer if I put it this way: If in growing old you become intolerant—if you look without seeing, read without comprehending, hear without understanding—then you are not in tune with all of life's advantages, without any of its compensations. And if compensations are too few to make up for the loss of youth, then you are not in tune with the actual situation of those who when you come to court, it is especially important that you keep trying to understand some every atom of understanding of something new is a sign of new vigor and on a plane to be met in your own opinion is to atrophy into a stunted old man who keeps on growing, you are young. When you turn into a mineral you are old.

Dear Mrs. Post: You have referred many times to the fundamentals of etiquette. Would it be possible to make the business of etiquette clear?

Answer: The object of etiquette is to make the world a pleasant place to live in. Rules that do not serve as aids to beauty, or pleasant accord, or dexterity, or to the upholding of ethical standards, are unimportant. Consideration of the rights and the sensibilities of others and supplying the means whereby social, domestic, business, political and diplomatic procedure shall be most pleasantly and most smoothly conducted comprise what might be called the fundamental business of etiquette.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

Cressida's First Lover

The formula which John Erskine used in his tales of Helen of Troy, Gaius and Adam and Eve was a pretty good one; and it, on something like it, pops to the surface again in "Cressida's First Lover," by Jack Lindsay, a sprightly offering of the current season.

Cressida was the daughter of an ancient Trojan mathematician and nothing much ever happened to her so when her father went to a seaside town on business and took her along, Cressida needed to be busy and make some other story.

She started by vamping a solid squire at her host's seaside castle, and it wasn't her fault that a band of pirates took advantage of the squire's absence from his duty to pull off a raid, of which Cressida herself was one of the prizes. Going to sea with the pirates, Cressida found all the excitement she had missed crammed into a few short weeks of hectic living.

What with escaping from the pirates and falling in with an ultra-bastard prince, becoming engaged to a dyspeptic king, vamping his prime minister and raising a furore that finally got her sold as a slave, Cressida had a gay tale to tell when she at last got back home; and Mr. Lindsay makes out of it all a yarn that will give you a great number of laughs.

His story isn't another "Helen of Troy." Mr. Erskine always puts a serious undertone into his stories, this novel is pure froth. But it's a very fast froth.

"Cressida's First Lover" is published by Ray Long and Richard R. Smith, and sells for $2.

Don't Allow Children To Drink Unsafe Water

BY ANGELO PATRI

Thirst is an awful feeling. One day I took a small boy and a canteen of water to the top of a mountain. The trail was very well marked but, starting in the morning, the trail fell apart and we could follow it easily. The sun grew warmer and warmer and by the time we reached the hill top the boy was thirsty. He saved himself on the pine needles and opened the canteen. We each had a good drink.

The boy was very smart. He had then even I remembered and inexperienced in wood lore to the way of a mountain. I expected him to screw the cap back on the canteen and take the rest of the water for the down trip. There is not a drop of water to be had on that rocky ridge and trapping makes one hot and thirsty. To my horror I turned to see him calmly shaking the clear dew of water out of the dry needles.

O, my, my, what have you done to me? You shall have no water to drink until we get home and we shall be very thirsty. You must always save water."

"That's all right, Daddy," he said, "I'll be back with the water." As the day lay at the foot of the mountain, I saw a stream of water as you might think. Slowly, I followed the stream and it was a stream of water. But I turned the stream and it was a stream of water. I went down the slope of the hill and the stream was a stream of water. I went down the slope of the hill and the stream was a stream of water. I went down the slope of the hill and the stream was a stream of water.

The hardest thing about water is holding the water. I had a cup of water and I wanted to drink it. I had a cup of water and I wanted to drink it. I had a cup of water and I wanted to drink it. I had a cup of water and I wanted to drink it. I had a cup of water and I wanted to drink it.

I carried him off and he was a good boy. I carried him off and he was a good boy. I carried him off and he was a good boy. I carried him off and he was a good boy. I carried him off and he was a good boy.

Children like to drink water. Children like to drink water. Children like to drink water. Children like to drink water. Children like to drink water.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Old Gardener

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS:

It is surprising to find that many amateurs still remove the weeds from their walks and drives with a hoe. This is a great waste of time and labor, for the operation must be repeated at frequent intervals throughout the summer. Garden rakers who have experiments with good weed waters will never go back to hand labor. Often times one application will suffice to keep the drives and walks free from weeds and grass for the entire season. Two applications are always sufficient. The material is easily applied with a watering can, and can also be used to kill out weeds and other undesirable plants.

Widening of Park Street Is Ordered

Council Also Votes to Beautify River Front In Fifth Ward

Menasha—Widening of Park-st under the direction of the street committee and beautification of the river front in the Fifth ward under the direction of the park board, using labor aid from the city, was authorized by the common council at its regular meeting here Tuesday evening.

The two projects are designed to give the city some return for funds expended for relief, and little additional expense on either of the two jobs will be necessary. Putting men who are receiving aid to work on such projects was one of the proposals endorsed by the Menasha Voters' league at its meeting Monday.

Following passage of the resolution, introduced by Alderman Baldwin, Mayor Rimmel urged that as many men as possible be given work, that a record of each individual's time be kept, and that foremen be named to supervise the crews. The park and street committees, in charge of the two projects, were authorized to name the foremen.

Accept Bid

The bid of Frank A. Kasel, offering to construct standard sidewalks, grading not included, for 13 cents per square foot and to repair sidewalks at 16 cents per square foot, quoted the lowest prices of three proposals received and was accepted by the council. Four bids on the dwelling and barn located on the new Jefferson school site in the Fifth ward were received but the highest offer for the house was $250 and all four proposals were rejected.

Two recommendations from the board of education, one providing for an appropriation of $2,500 to finish two rooms at the new Jefferson school and the other for the purchase of seven acres in the Fourth ward for a school site were presented at Tuesday's session.

The recommendation for the appropriation for the provided that the necessary $2,500 be returned to the general fund through the sale of lots at the old Jefferson school site and was passed without opposition.

Table Proposal

The second recommendation providing for the purchase of lots 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11 of block 8 in Round's addition and of the filling station and buildings located on the land at a price of $22,000 as a new Fourth ward school site was tabled for further investigation on a suggestion by Mayor Rimmel. In deferring action on the matter, the council pointed out that owners of property in the Fourth ward should have some voice in the selection of the site.

The requests of the Menasha Voters' league, read at the meeting, provided not only for putting men who are receiving aid to work on city projects but also for the appointment of a city planning commission and suspension of action on the Fourth ward school site purchase until the commission has been created. The commission, the league recommendation provided should be composed of one member of the park board, one member of the school board, one from the water and light commission and two from the city at large. The matter was referred to the committee of the whole with instructions to report at the next meeting.

Consider Projects

A number of street projects received aldermanic attention Tuesday. Alderman James Baldwin of the Fifth ward, providing that the city attorney be authorized to begin condemnation proceedings against the property owned by William Jensen, necessary for the opening of Madison-st, was approved and the attorney was instructed to begin the required investigations. Repair of the Racine-st railroad crossing and a petition for oiling of Madison-st between Railroad and Madison-sts were referred to the street committee.

The street committee also was authorized to repair the pier at the west end of the Mill-st bridge and a step at the Tayco-st bridge and to purchase 50 barrels of Tarvia for street repairs. Action on the proposed opening of a new street between Seventh and Eighth-sts, was deferred when Mayor Rimmel pointed out that the property involved was included in one of the proposed Fourth ward school sites.

A number of reports were given by M. F. Cramer, city attorney, in a written opinion, asked by the council at a recent session, he revealed that the council could legally contract for sidewalk work over a period of one year. He also reported on a recent conference with Wisconsin-Michigan Power company officials relative to the discontinuation of local bus service in the twin cities.

To Provide Bus

The local service explained, has been discussed because of insufficient revenue but the company has agreed to provide a bus for the benefit of children during school months and to alter the schedule to provide half hour service between Neenah and Menasha during the noon hour.

Crowley also read communications from the C. M. St. P. & P. railroad company, revealing that switch engines in Menasha were provided with screen hoods according to law. Complaints had been made about live sparks from switch engines operating in the Second ward. The attorney also reported the measures taken by the Wisconsin Tissue Mills company of Menasha to eliminate soot, about which residents recently complained.

A resolution providing that Emily Swatscheno, 737 Second-st, be given a quit claim deed to a strip of property adjacent to the water tower property playground, on condition that she erect a suitable fence, was passed. The proposed purchase of concrete lot markers at 15 cents each and of 150 pounds of seed for use at Resthaven cemetery was referred back to the cemetery committee for a report at the next meeting.

Consider Complaint

A complaint by the Cooke and Browne company of Oshkosh, relative to the operation of the Mill-st bridge, led to a brief debate in which Alderman Brezninski urged that gates instead of chains be used at the end bridge when it is open.

The July report of John Sensenbrenner, superintendent of poor, revealed a total expenditure of $2,706.23.

The need for additional lighting at the end of Nicolet-blvd, was brought to the attention of the council and action by the water and light commission was recommended.

Attendance of two Menasha firemen at the annual convention of paid firemen at Janesville next week at city expense was presented by Mayor Rimmel but was opposed by Aldermen Grode and Grade and no action was taken.

"GRAND HOTEL" SHOWS HERE FRIDAY

Music plays an important supplementary function in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all-star picturization of Vicki Baum's "Grand Hotel," which plays Friday, August fifth at the Fox Theatre. Above is a scene from the film.

Through a novel method of synchronization, Director Edmund Goulding underlined his dialogue with a musical score, "backgrounding" the entire action of the drama with atmospheric orchestrations. Some of these are original theme numbers, but the greater number are derived from popular German and Viennese melodies, presenting the mood of the picture in a novel way.

There was no attempt, Goulding explained, to provide theme songs or even any particular melody that might be identified or isolated in the scoring. What was sought for was an interpretative musical accompaniment that would aid in evoking moods and emphasizing dramatic situations, but would remain unobtrusive to the audience.

"I didn't want the audience to be conscious that music was being played purposely," he said. But it is introduced through legitimate means. But it is almost always present throughout the Grand Hotel. Perhaps it may be heard very faintly in the distance. It might be from the yellow room downstairs, or it may be from a radio in a neighboring room."

Goulding wrote the music for "Love, Thy Magic Spell is Everywhere" and also has composed a number of unpublished melodies. The "Grand Hotel" score, as he edited it, includes both original and standard numbers, woven into a symphonic medley.

Mayor Asks Citizens For Cooperation With Council

Menasha—An appeal for the good will of citizens and cooperation with himself and the common council was made by Mayor N. G. Rimmel in a brief address before the council and a number of citizens Tuesday evening.

Calling attention to the difficulties involved in public relief administration, the mayor explained that all investigations that could be made by officials in charge of the work were being made, and that citizens, if they are aware of errors in administration should bring the facts to the attention of the officials fairly, rather than make unjust or unfair criticism of the work in progress.

There never was a time, the mayor stated, when the council, generally speaking, did not work for the best interests of the city. Officials work day and night toward the solution of present problems and city records are always open to inspection. The council wishes to serve, he maintained, but to work effectively it must have cooperation of the people.

Citizens elect their public officials Rimmel stated, and have the power to recall them from office. If the mayor and council are not serving satisfactorily, they are willing to step out of office and give others the opportunity to do the work as they desire.

Explaining the present system of relief administration as a "dole system," the mayor endorsed the plan for putting men who are receiving aid to work on city projects, and explained that the council had been working toward that end for some time and were able to work out the problem. He cautioned against projects which would involve additional expense however, explaining that soon a new budget would be drawn and that economy was increasingly necessary.

Pointing out that the city could not tax its people beyond their ability to pay, the mayor contended that the only way to reduce taxes is to stop spending money. In closing he urged again that citizens have the courtesy to make suggestions present their facts honestly and fairly.

Mrs. Emma Pauer, Fifth ward resident, was given the floor for a brief talk on poor relief in which she urged that the list of those receiving aid be published and alleged that James Baldwin, Fifth ward alderman and poor committee chairman, did not investigate relief cases adequately. She also alleged that some of those who received free seeds from the city had traded their seeds "for a bottle."

At the conclusion of Mrs. Pauer's talk, Alderman Anton Brezninski of the First ward, also a member of the poor committee, endorsed the mayor's speech and said that the poor committee was working constantly to solve the relief problem in the best possible manner. He also questioned the aims of some members of the Voters' league and said that the city officials should not be unfairly criticized.

Boy Scouts to Outline Plans for Camping Trip

Menasha—Boy scouts of Troop 14, under the direction of Robert Schwartz, scout master, will leave for Onaway Island, near Waupaca, Aug. 14 and will complete plans for the outing at a meeting in the Congregational church parlors Thursday evening. # Bus Situation To be Discussed

Neenah Council Expected To Consider Matter at Meeting Tonight

Neenah—The bus situation in the twin cities is expected to come before the city council at its Wednesday evening session. The withdrawal of the local bus service between Neenah and Menasha last Monday, leaves the two cities without service. The Wisconsin-Michigan Power company claims there were not enough passengers to warrant keeping the busses in operation. It is understood that the company plans to operate a bus once in the morning and again in the afternoon when the schools open for the fall term to accommodate pupils residing long distances from the schools. It is understood also that the city is seeking some company or persons to come in and operate a local service in the two cities, the present bus to carry only Appleton passengers as an inter-urban line.

The council at its last meeting authorized City Attorney John O'Leary to act with City Attorney Crowley of Menasha on the bus matter. The two attorneys held a meeting last week with bus line officials at Appleton, the outcome of which will be reported at the council meeting tonight.

State Grange Picnic Is Planned at Neenah

Neenah—Arrangements are being made to entertain the state Grange picnic here during the latter part of the present month. If plans can be completed the event will be held at Riverside park and will be attended by several hundred Grange members from all parts of the state. Those in charge have sent invitations to all Grange organizations. Several Grange societies in this vicinity are also planning to hold their annual picnic at Neenah in connection with the state affair.

year and also this year will be accepted as entrants. Prizes will also be awarded for the best constructed boat as well as for its speed.

Softball League to Start Play Wednesday

Neenah—City league softball games will be resumed Wednesday evening at the city park diamonds, these games being the third of the second round with Nash White Sox, Neenah Papers and Telephones tied for first place, each having won two and lost none. Lakeviews have won two and lost one; Draheim Sport Shops, have won and lost one; Whiting Papers and Klenex have not won a game but lost two in this round and the Grocers have lost all games played. Klenex and Draheim Sports tied at the end of the first round, tie deciding game to be played next week the winner of which will play the winner of the second round at the close of the season for the city championship.

Fond du Lac Juniors To Meet Neenah Team

Neenah—The Fond du Lac tennis club team will come to Neenah Thursday afternoon to play the Doty club junior team at the club courts. The Neenah Junior team has so far won all its matches in the series being played with neighboring club junior teams. The matches to have been played at Sheboygan last Saturday were postponed until a later date.

Sail Boat Regatta Is Planned for Next Week

Neenah—The annual playground sail boat regatta is scheduled for next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings at Riverside park, when prizes will be awarded to boys whose boat wins the largest number of points during the three days. Boats made by the boys last year will be used.

At Neenah Library Leases Neenah Home

Neenah—The Rev. Joseph Van Bogart, pastor of the new St. Margaret Mary parish, has leased the L. A. Williams residence at 630 Winneconne-ave, where he will make his home until the new church and parish house has been completed. Rev. Van Bogart has been residing at St. Elizabeth hospital at Appleton since his appointment to the local parish.

Pastor of New Parish Leases Neenah Home

Make Pairings For Golf Meet At Riverside

Thirty-Two Players Enter Championship Matches At Clintonville

Special to Post-Crescent
Clintonville—Pairings have been made in the club championship tournament which is to be held during the month of August at Riverside Golf club. Of the 40 or more players who entered this contest the 32 low scorers were selected to compete for the trophy now held by George McCauley. Pairings have been completed and first rounds must be played on or before August 7.

Following are the pairings:
Harold Heuer vs. Earl Siebert.
John Buehrens vs. B. E. Miller.
F. D. Hurley vs. R. A. Greb.
H. V. Larson vs. George McCauley.

S. H. Sanford vs. Carl Rulshoff.
Dr. G. W. Spang vs. C. F. Stuben-voll.
Herbert Bovee vs. L. A. Heuer.
Gilbert Felschow vs. Fred Holmes.
Henry O'Connell vs. Kenneth Spearbraker.

Edgar Voelz vs. Lloyd Stiechman.
Gale Sheddore vs. James Larson.
Harold Oik vs. S. J. Tilleson.
E. C. Stuben-voll vs. E. J. Perkins.
Roy Morris vs. Michaelis.
Guy H. Billings vs. Dr. J. Devine.
Victor Kant vs. Dr. J. H. Murphy.

The Golf trophy tourney is nearly completed, only two matches remaining to be played. Edgar Voelz is the survivor in the lower bracket, while Harold Heuer is to play Lloyd Stiechman for a chance to trim Edgar. The winners will receive the prize which is presented by George Graff.

The tri-city match at Antigo held Sunday resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Shawano and Clintonville golf club. Combined forces against the Antigo team, but were beaten by a score of 40 to 14. If possible, Clintonville is going to get a match with Antigo on Riverside course, just to show the Antigo players what they can do on familiar ground. Low score in the tri-city tournament was shot by an Antigo player, who turned in a 77 card.

Harold Heuer recently turned in a 38 on the local course, which establishes a new amateur record for 9 holes. Jack Krish, pro, shot another par-cracking score on the same day, registering a 35. This is the second time that par, which is 36, has been broken on the course.

Thursday, August 4, Mrs. William E. Rosenow and Mrs. L. A. Heuer will be the tag-essays at the Ladies Day tournament. Play will begin at 2:30 and the prize will be presented by Mrs. H. V. Larson.

Sunday Aug. 7, Clintonville will send a team to New London for the third Inter-Club match for the team trophy now held by Clintonville. The local players are undefeated in this series and hope to continue their winning streak.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Patterson, and family Mae and Raymond were at Neenah Saturday where they attended the United Commercial Travelers' annual picnic. They spent Sunday in Appleton, where they were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Bialkowski.

Miss Grace Cruse of Chippewa Falls, teacher in the local public school, is visiting friends in this city for several days.

A business session occupied the meeting of Rotarians in Hotel Marston following their weekly noon luncheon. They arranged their budget for the ensuing year.

A treasure hunt provided entertainment for members of boy scout Troop 2 at a meeting Monday evening at the Dairyman's State bank. A group of scouts from here are planning to attend the annual summer camp for boy scouts of the valley council to be held at Onaway Island, Chain O' Lakes, Wau-paca.

Make Change at Oil Company's Station

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A change is being made this week at the filling station of the Petroleum Cooperative Oil company, 428 Shawano-st. due to the rulings of the Wisconsin industrial commission loading of trucks must be done in the open. This ruling necessitated tearing out of the end wall of the building and moving it back a distance. An over-hanging portion of the roof remaining will provide a protection to drivers of trucks loading oil and gasoline. The work is being done by men employed at the station.

Law to Regulate Peddlers Turned Down by Council

Aldermen Disagree on Fees, Form of License And Penalties

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—An ordinance regulating the operations of peddlers and hawkers operating in New London was considered at the council meeting held on Tuesday evening and rejected. The ordinance defined peddlers and hawkers and named conditions under which licenses would be granted to such persons. The council disagreed upon the form of license and the amount of fee to be asked for granting such a license, and upon the fines and effect of failure to produce licenses.

R. G. Wort, secretary of the chamber of commerce, was present at the meeting and stated that he was desirous of putting the ordinance through in an effort to protect local business men from men and women who sell a variety of merchandise in the residential district, pay no license and no tax to the city. The ordinance now in effect is one which has been in use since 1906 and has been shown to have shown six votes against the ordinance with three in favor.

No other business was brought before the council except allowance of bills.

Work Finished on Forest Junction Viaduct, Roads

Resume Travel Over Highway Which Had Been Barricaded for a Year

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—With the completion of highway construction work which had been in progress here for approximately one year, traffic on Highway 10 this week resumed its previous course on the north village limits from which it had been barred since the middle of August last year.

But where the course previously led over a level roadway, motorists are now obliged to the descent of grades over the east and west Forest Junction viaducts. With the highway intersecting the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific and the Chicago and Northwestern tracks diagonally only a short distance from the railroad crossing the viaducts are so close together that vehicles descend from one structure just in time to ascend the other.

The west viaduct, over which Highway 10 crosses, is a distance of slightly more than a mile in its course over the two structures. The east viaduct, which bridges the Milwaukee road tracks at very nearly a right angle, has a concrete deck, 185 feet long, and with the ground approaches measures 2500 feet from end to end, according to the engineers' specifications. The west viaduct crossing the Northwestern tracks and a camp ground entrance at approximately 30-degree angles has a concrete floor of 451 feet and seven inches, and with the approaches measures six-tenths of a mile.

Defeating the local baseball team 13 to 8 in a Badger league game here Sunday afternoon, Beaulieu Hill pentins first place in league standings. Playing on his home diamond, Hollandtown defeated St. John 10 to 9 and 8 to 7 in a double header game, and continues to hold second place. Third place is held by the team from that place defeated Ashkosh 9 to 2. Hollandtown will meet the local nine here next Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Jansch, who were married here Aug. 1, 1927, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at their home Monday evening. About 18 relatives were entertained in honor of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Jansch have lived here continuously during the past quarter century, with Mr. Jansch active in local business. His wife was formerly Miss Alma Albrecht.

Miss Gertrude Wink representing the Christian Endeavor league of Zion Evangelical church, and Miss Vela Knoespe, representing the local church school, left Sunday for Lomira where they are spending the week attending the sessions of an annual church assembly for young people's groups from points in Wisconsin.

Management of the local railroad station and telegraph office was assumed Monday by Edward Johnson, who fills the vacancy caused by the recent return of C. P. Devereaux to Stiles Junction. Mr. Devereaux was transferred here from the Milwaukee road depot at Appleton.

The Faithful Cheat

BY RUBY M. AYRES

SYNOPSIS: Spending a last evening with Mark Merriman before he sails for the Congo, Sondra Kent wonders how she can face the five years of separation. But she will not marry him until he makes his fortune, she determines, as she has been brought up with one goal--the marrying of a millionaire. Also, she realizes she would not be happy in poverty with "cheap clothes, a mean house and the eternal grind of trying to make ends meet on nothing a year." She has obtained his position in the Congo from John Anderson, who loves her but cannot marry her because his wife will not divorce him. Mark and Sondra talk about anything except the fact that they care for each other. She wonders how she will be able to get through the last minutes of seeing him off on the boat.

CHAPTER 7
SONDRA'S APPEAL

It was a beautiful night; a clear sky with a golden waning moon and a breath of coming spring in the air. Sondra sat there beside Merriman in the narrow automobile seat, her hands clenched, her feet pressed hard to the floor.

"I can't bear it... I can't bear it..." she was saying over and over again in her heart.

She spoke suddenly, quietly. "Are you in a hurry? Do we have to go home quite at once?"

"Of course not. I only thought where shall we go?"

"Anywhere--it's such a heavenly night."

She moved her arm a little so that it touched his, and she closed her eyes, trying not to think.

He said suddenly with an effort, "A penny for your thoughts," and she answered impulsively: "I was envying you, wishing I could come too."

She heard him catch his breath sharply, but he answered in a hard voice. "You would loathe it. I believe all women do. There are mosquitoes and enormous spiders and fevers and -- and every inconvenience one can conceive."

"I know. John Anderson told me how his wife hated it; but, of course, that's years ago--things may have improved."

"It's not a woman's country."

They drove on for some way, not speaking again. Sondra half dozed beside him; the hum of the engine and the soft air on her face were almost like a soothing narcotic.

When he spoke presently, she started, as if she had really been sleeping.

"Isn't this beautiful?"

She opened her eyes and leaned a little forward, staring at the river far below, gleaming like a golden snake in the moonlight, winding away against wooded banks far out of sight.

Merriman said suddenly: "Well, wherever I go I shall never see anything I like better than this. We used to live near here when I was a boy--and I often came here and looked over the river and dreamed of all the wonderful things I would do when I grew up. Funny, isn't it?"

"I expect all those wonderful things will come true."

"Do you?"

She said softly, "Tell me what they were -- those wonderful things." He shook his head.

"They've all gone.... I can't remember them any more. I can only remember that..." He stopped, and she added for him: "That on Friday morning the boat goes at 11."

He nodded silently.

Sondra was very still for a moment, then she said quietly, "Mark, don't you think--because the boat goes at 11 on Friday you might, you might be quite honest with me--just for this once?"

She felt his body stiffen, but he said nothing, and she touched the hand that rested on the steering wheel.

"Quite... quite honest," she said with a sob.

He gave a rough little laugh. "And say things we should both be sorry for--for the rest of our lives?"

"Mightn't we be more sorry... if they are never said?" she whispered.

It seemed a long time before he spoke, and then it was in a slow, dull voice, almost expressionless.

"I may be the greatest failure--out there... or I may never come home again. Even if I do--there isn't any certainty--how do I know what sort of a future--"

She said with a sob, "Does the future matter?... We've got such a little while left."

He moved his hand away from hers almost roughly. "It's not fair to any woman... to ask... to expect... It might mean years of waiting, and then--at the end... nothing. Let me take you home now, Sondra, before I... we..."

Then suddenly he broke down; he turned and caught her to him with desperate arms.

"I love you... I love you..." And she echoed his words wildly, as if she hardly knew what she was saying. "I love you... I love you..."

"I never meant to tell you..."

"I know."

"I've longed so to tell you... every time we met... every moment of the day and night--"

"I know."

"And now it's too late..."

She turned her face against his shoulder, her cheek pressed to his. She said with a broken little laugh, "We've got... all the time... till the boat goes."

"If only that was true"

She lifted her face and their lips met.

After a long time, when he released her, she said breathlessly: "Don't you think it belongs to us? The little time that is left? It may be all we shall have... all our lives."

Suddenly she was weeping. "Oh, I've never had any happiness--or real love, and now you're going away..."

Then suddenly she was silent, her wild words all spent, the bitterness of defeat closing about her heart as she waited for him to speak. Then she heard his voice, broken, shaken with unwilling passion.

"There's only one way, Sondra... if you... if we... if you will marry me... before I go."

Finds He Isn't Heir:

Faces Bad Check Quiz

Omaha, Neb.--Six weeks ago 60-year-old Fred Wagner locked the doors of his tiny cafe when he heard he was to inherit a $200,000 share of a Seattle, Wash., estate. He was in police court Tuesday for arraignment on a charge of writing no-found checks. But the case was continued to give him a chance to make good his checks.

Borrowing $500 from a friend to go to Seattle to claim the estate, Wagner learned he told police today that the estate was not left to him but to his mother, Mrs. Fred Pruessing, Sr. He insisted the estate accumulated by his father, was real.

When his mother dies, he explained, the money will go to his brother, Carl Pruessing, his sister, Mrs. Charles Krake, 542 E. Mercer-st. of Seattle, and himself.

Wagner said his real name is Fred Pruessing, Jr. but he has used Wagner for 30 years. He adopted it, he said, after he had hit a man with a billiard cue in a Seattle pool hall and left town hurriedly.

After hesitating a few minutes she replied: "I think vanilla would look best on my dress."--Edmonton, Alta., Bulletin.

Rogers Hornsby Released as Manager of Chicago Cubs

Charlie Grimm, First Sacker, Is Successor

Deposed Leader Followed
Joe McCarthy as Boss
Of Club in 1930

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO—(AP)—Baseball's most famous nomad, Rogers Hornsby, was on his way again today—deposed as manager of the Chicago Cubs.

The announcement of Hornsby's dismissal last night, with a suddenness so startling as much as egot as when John McGraw, without warning, quit as manager of the New York Giants last June.

In making his announcement, William L. Veeck, president of the club, said, without elaboration: "It was to the best interests of the club that Hornsby retire at this time."

Not only is the Rajah, probably the stormiest figure in modern National league history, all done as manager of the club—the third to be placed in his charge—but he is no longer a member of the club, having also been released as a player.

Worked Over Team in 1930
Hornsby, manager of the Cubs since the last four days of the 1930 season, when he was replaced by Charlie Grimm, first baseman for the club since 1925. He also has been team captain.

Hornsby's only comment before leaving the club at Philadelphia, was that Veeck had wanted to make the move and "it's perfectly all right with me." His salary, said to be $40,000 annually, will be paid to the end of his contract, which expires Dec. 31, 1932.

Almost from the time when he broke in with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1915, Hornsby's major league career has been a succession of sensational incidents from start to finish. His bow in major league baseball was inauspicious, but in 1920, he started on a six year batting rampage that notched him as one of the game's greatest right-handers.

Became Hitting Star
Three times during the period he compiled averages of better than .400, and in 1924 he set a standard in hitting, .424, that has not been equaled. He became manager of the Cardinals for the 1926 season, and playing at second base, led the club to its first National league title.

The world series with the New York Yankees was one of the most thrilling, Hornsby's club won four victories to three.

The baseball world was dumbfounded, when, during the winter after the Cardinals' triumph, Hornsby was traded to the New York Giants for Frankie Frisch and pitcher Jimmy Ring. It was hinted that the Rajah would become the successor to McGraw as manager of the Giants. He was with the club a year before baseball received another jolt, via Hornsby.

He was traded to the Boston Braves, and a few weeks after the start of the 1928 campaign opened, another mid season trade was created when he replaced Jack Slatery as pitcher of the club.

Another peak in his career was reached in 1928 when he came to the Cubs in baseball's biggest deal. The late William Wrigley, Jr., determined to have a championship club, paid out $125,000 and five players, Freddie McGuire, Percy Lee Jones, Harry Selby, Bruce Cunningham and Leggett, for Hornsby's services.

Then, just before the final series of the 1930 season, Mr. Wrigley decided that the club's failure to win the title, dismissed Joe McCarthy, and appointed Hornsby to the task of leading the Cubs.

President Veeck, in charge of the club, thought the death of Mr. Wrigley, since the club, today in second place, should be at least closer. Hornsby's release followed a conference and the Rajah again is on his way.

May Join White Sox
Where the Rajah is going, remained a subject of speculation today. There were hints that he might become manager of the down trodden Chicago White Sox, who have been floundering around in the American League pennant race.

Hornsby is popular with Chicago fans, and it was not surprising that he was going to the White Sox, either as a player or as a manager, gave them something to talk about.

Grimm, who assumes the management of the Cubs today, has been one of the game's greatest first basemen, one of the popular figures. He has been in the National league since 1920, first with the Pittsburgh Pirates and then with the Cubs. Grimm is 33 years old and long has been known as a brilliant fielder and a timely hitter.

Pittsburgh snatched him in 1920 from Little Rock, Ark., after he had been sent there by the St. Louis Cardinals, with which club he had a brief trial in 1918. He spent his high batting average of .345 in 1923. In November, 1924, Grimm came to the Cubs, when the Pirates came to a cube cleaning, trading him, Maranville and Colder to the Cubs in exchange of Aldridge, Grantham and Niehaus.

Valley League Gossip

GREEN BAY maintained its one-game lead over Kaukauna in the Fox River Valley league pennant scramble by thumping Shawano last week-end. Kaukauna humbled Appleton, while the Rapids edged out Kimberly.

Manager Bert Reed juggled his starting battery and used Lefty Easting against Kimberly in place of Earl Blot, regular hurler. The replacement was made to stiffen the hitting power of the Papermakers' left handers.

Eddie Kozal, coach at Stevens Point Normal and formerly a star halfback with the Green Bay Packers did a "Frank Greenwell" trick, Kimberly, by throwing out a single in the bottom to score Young with the winning run.

McClain, Swenson and Hribernik also featured at the place for Wisconsin Rapids. Hribernik, whose hitting this season is keeping pace with the off-season business depression, slammed out three base bingles.

Dupont, Muench, Powell and Thain were the hitting luminaries for Kimberly, accounting for two hits apiece. Powell contributed a home run in the second inning with the paths unoccupied while Dupont drove out two doubles.

Representatives of the Fox River Valley league will meet Sunday at Appleton for their monthly meeting. Although only routine business will be discussed, President Baetz expects a one hundred per cent attendance.

The game scheduled between Green Bay and the Madison Blues for this Friday was set back until Aug. 25. The Madison club was forced to delay the game because of a conflict in its schedule with the Logan Squares.

Joe Petrick, popular Green Bay hurler, was honored last week-end at a celebration planned for him in conjunction with the Shawano game. Joe was presented with a gift and then went out and hurled the Sox to another victory.

Bill Bucho, veteran Shawano pitcher, drew the curving nomination, but the Bay batsmen pummeled his slants and forced him to give way to Lefty Rubin in the fourth frame. The Indians coined all their runs in the last two innings.

Chief Waukechon, Shawano second baseman, had a profitable afternoon with the lumber and nicked Petrick for four hits. Although his drives were of the "fuke" variety, the Chief can make use of them in his season's batting average.

Norm Clausman and Freddie Hackbart smashed out home runs for Green Bay. Clausman's came in the second inning with none on, while Hackbart drove Muldowny across in the fifth after the latter had clubbed out a double.

Red Evans, former State league pitcher, who is under contract with Appleton, started his second game for the Collegians and was effective for eleven hits. Evans was fouled in the pitcher and turned back eleven on strike-outs.

Appleton made things interesting for Kaukauna and forced the Kaws to battle all the way. Kaukauna made its niche secure in the Fox River Valley race by mustering its hitting power in the eighth inning to tally four runs.

Lefty Fortin, Kaukauna pitcher, returned to the fold after an absence of two weeks and limited the Appleton club to seven hits. Fortin was in trouble several times but his supporters responded nicely in the field and at the plate.

Hitting honors were shared jointly by Vilis, Pocan, Collins, Wenzel and Fortin, all five collecting two hits each. Sports Wenzel tallied one over the fence in the third inning while Vilis rifled out two of Evans' slants for doubles.

Kimberly and Green Bay will meet each other in the important game of the week-end on the latter's diamond. Wisconsin Rapids is scheduled to play at the Appleton stamping grounds, while Shawano will travel to Kaukauna.

Sixth Ward Midgets
Cop 5th Ball Game

Sixth ward Midgets won their fifth straight football game Monday night when they defeated the Fourth ward 22 and 9 at McKinley school grounds. The team has not lost a game this summer. Robert Block pitched for the winners and struck out six and walked one. Norman Sabot did the catching.

Thursday the Sixth warders will play the Second ward team at First ward school grounds.

DeMolay Winner Over Foresters

J. C. C-Eagle Game, Rained Out Last Night, to Be Played Monday

DeMolay softballers turned back the drive of the Foresters in Fraternal league circles Monday evening when the Coppeds a 9 and 5 victory. The DeMolays to the league and the Foresters have been rather ambitious of late and indicated they would like to over haul the leaders.

The Foresters started the evening's scoring when Schwab registered in the second frame. The DeMolay got back the run and one for extra measure in the third inning to take a 2 and 1 lead which they never relinquished. Two more runs were chalked up in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the seventh and two in the eighth.

Griesbach and Klotzinger worked for the losers and Wenzler and Cahall for the winners. The winners collected six hits and the losers the same number.

The game between the Junior Chamber and the Eagles which was rained out last night has been scheduled for Monday evening. Friday night the Moose and Knights of Columbus will clash in the last regularly scheduled game.

A non league game between the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Bankers will be staged at 6:15 Thursday night at Pierce park.

Neenah and Menasha Netters in Tourney

Delafield—(AP)—Despite showers the western junior and boys' tennis tournament played its regular schedule yesterday.

Robert Kramath, Austin, Tex., eliminated Shirley Padden, Kansas City, in love sets and Bob Broecker, Manitowish, 6-2, 6-2 in boys' play yesterday. Don Leavens, Milwaukee, went to the quarter final round in the boys' division, by beating Marvin Wachman, Milwaukee, in love sets.

In other boys' singles matches Arthur Nickel, Waukegan, defeated Carlton Smith, Neenah, 6-1, 6-0. Paul Strange, Neenah, won by default from Charles Spaulding, Delafield. The boys' tennis tournament is being held at the Delafield City, defeated Bill Strong, Neenah, 7-3, 3-5, 7-5.

Willard Stafford, Madison, was eliminated in the junior singles by George Dullin, Austin, Tex., 6-2, 6-1.

Oneida Golfers Play B. D. M. Team Saturday

Butte des Morts club golf team which was routed out of a match with Pine Hills club of Scarborough Tuesday, will try again Saturday when Oneida Riding and Golf club team of Oneida invades the city. It will be the first team match this season for Butte des Morts members. On Sept. 3 the Appleton golfers will go to Green Bay.

Dodgers Again Win; See Place In 1st Division

Humble Lon Warneke and Chicago Cubs: Have Won 9 Out of 11

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
LAVING the ball Brooklyn's fans expected of them at the start of the season, Max Carey, Brooklyn Dodgers are soaring to a first division berth in the National league's pennant fight.

Warneke in nine of their last 11 games the Dodgers were in first place today, only a game and a half behind the fourth place Boston Braves.

Their latest triumph—a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs—was gained at the expense of the sensational rookie right-hander, Lon Warneke. His defeat against 16 victories. Three of his losses have been credited to Brooklyn.

Warneke held a 2-1 lead going into the last half of the eighth after a great duel with Freddy Heimsack but the Dodgers got to him for three runs and the ball game. Johnny Frederick's pinch double did it in the winning runs.

The Cubs lost no ground in pennant chase, however, for the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates accepted their fourth straight defeat at Philadelphia, 11-6 as Chuck Klein crashed his thirty-first homer of the year. The Phillies now trail Chicago by only one game and Pittsburgh by six.

Boston rallied for a run in the sixth of Darry Dean to turn back the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3 while Waite Hoyt scattered 11 hits to give the New York Giants a 3-2 decision over the Cincinnati Reds.

In the American League, Washington whipped the Chicago White Sox, 4-1 behind Alvin Crowder's six-hit pitching. Young Bill Chamberlain made his debut for the White Sox and allowed the Senators' first five hits but his teammates' three errors cost him the game.

The St. Louis Browns made it three in a row from the Boston Red Sox, 6-4, bunching five hits for four runs off Bob Weiland in the second inning. Ed Durham went in and held the Browns to one hit for the new five and one-third innings.

The Browns last brace of tallies were scored for a pinch hitter. The Browns last brace of tallies were scored for a pinch hitter. The Browns last brace of tallies were scored for a pinch hitter.

Shires "Fired" By Boston Braves

But Final Action Is Delayed Until Today; Objected to Trade

Boston—(AP)—Arthur (The Great) Shires appeared to be taking the subway way of baseball today, but whether the belligerent "bad boy" of the majors would pop into the minors or into the prize ring was a matter for conjecture.

The first speaker, whose colorful penchant for self-promotion had him the sobriquets "What a man" and "I'm great," was fired by Manager Bill McKenchie of the Boston Braves yesterday but final action on his immediate future was delayed until today.

Shires got fired when he refused to be traded to the manager's plan to trade him into the minors where he came.

President Emil Fuchs, on the road seeking another pitcher for the initial sack, sent word to hold off final action until today.

Shires has been off the game of late, and there has been talk of friction between him and the management.

There was a lot of gossip about whether Shires, if given an unconditional release, would go to the minors or enter the prize ring.

Shires failed to earn his back pay he attempted to earn on his fabled pugna.

Shires starred with Milwaukee in the American association last year.

J. J. Plank Wins Match In President's Play

Joseph J. Plank was the first Butte des Morts golfer competing for the president's trophy to enter the finals in his bracket. He defeated E. A. White, 2-1, according to club athletes. Stanley A. Staidl moved into the semi-finals of the bracket a few days ago when he defeated James Whelan, 1-0. Staidl had a 95 and Whelan a 90 for the match.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

THE recent American League agitation against the bean ball was inspired by Philadelphia baseball writers, and the man they were out to stop was Filpo Marberry of the Washington Nationals.

For some years there has been a feud between Al Simmons and Marberry. Several times it has come near being a pitched battle. Philadelphia scribes reported that in one game recently, Marberry "openly boasted that he would 'dist off' certain Philadelphia batsmen, and then went right ahead and did it."

Some Plain Words
Here are a few well chosen words from the pen of Jimmy McInerney, Quakertown, baseball reporter, criticizing the disgusting practice.

"Unless bean ball throwing in the American League is curbed there are bound to be more fatalities in baseball as a result of this evil instrument."

"Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, died more than a decade ago, is in his grave because he dared stand too close to the spitting, perfectly legal and sporting privilege. The bean ball ended his life."

"Bean ball pitching comes under the head of dangerous warfare. It is as just as barbaric in spirit as the U-bait, gas, air raids against civilians and the sinking of hospital ships are in warfare between nations."

A Golf Comparison
"It is just as out of place in baseball as it would be for Sarazen to throw the ball to the batter's head to make him plate shy."

That's about the only tool he has. He cannot maintain his speed for nine innings and is generally knocked off the rubber when he undertakes to go the regulation distance.

He is used principally as a relief hurler. He comes into the game in the sixth, seventh or eighth inning with a terrific fast ball. To show his opponents, he throws the ball to the batter's head to make him plate shy."

Toledo Mud Hens Spot Mills Four Runs and Then Win

Branom's Homer Helps
Colonels Humble Milwaukee Brewers

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Toledo Mud Hens, who almost belted Milwaukee out of the American association leadership on the occasion of the Millers last visit, are acting up again.

The Hens reduced the Miller lead almost to nothing by taking three out of four in the last time Milwaukee played at Elysian field, and yesterday got off to another big start. The Mud Hens spotted Donie Bush's men four runs in the second inning, then went on to make up ground. They halted Hi Vandenberg out of action in the third during a drive to tie the score, and finished up with another four-run rally in the fifth at the expense of Paul Heneck, finally winning by 8 to 5.

Carl Busch, with a change of pace, got off to another big start. The Mud Hens spotted Donie Bush's men four runs in the second inning, then went on to make up ground. Plan Estimate
Of City Costs
At Kaukauna

Council Will Attempt to Learn How Much Is Needed for Rest of Year

Kaukauna—That a schedule of city expenditures for the remainder of the year should be worked out, was suggested by Mayor B. W. Fargo after aldermen had discussed the report of the city treasurer for the month of July at a meeting Tuesday evening. City funds were decreased $17,000 during the month, leaving a balance of $102,000, according to the report. Aldermen will map out a schedule of expenditures at an informal meeting to be held next Tuesday evening, it was decided.

Alderman William Carnot, who is a member of the utility commission, reported that utility commissioners decided at a meeting Monday evening to extend the Tenth-st water main in conjunction with the proposed sewer project. Action on the sewer project has been delayed pending the signature of a waiver by one property owner on the street.

Various suggestions for supervision of the completed athletic field in the rear of the high school were discussed, and Joseph Lefevre, city attorney, was instructed to investigate the control of a similar project in a nearby city. A report of the investigation will be given at the next meeting of the council.

Some of the aldermen favored putting the utility commission in charge of the project, others suggested the park board or council. All were in favor of barring athletic activities on the field until next year.

Favor Seeding

Seeding the plot and caring for the growth of grass was suggested by Alderman Bert Roberts. The spot should also be used as a municipal playground and the high school should be allowed privileges on the field whenever their athletic schedule demanded, he said. Alderman Walter Cooper agreed with the suggestion, also favoring the seeding of the plot.

A committee composed of chairman of the various committees that have had charge of the field while it was being improved, and representatives of the council and board of education, should control the use of the field was the belief of F. M. Charlesworth, city engineer. Following the discussion the city attorney was appointed to investigate the methods followed in Green Bay.

The need of a system of garbage collection here was pointed out by Alderman William Carnot, acting upon advice of the city health officer. Ridicance of insect pests, that are prevalent about heaps of garbage during the summer months, would be possible if there was a system of garbage removal was the belief of the health officer. After some discussion, in which it was pointed out that residents should bear the cost of the removal by private collectors, Mayor B. W. Fargo instructed Alderman Carnot to seek complete information on some plan of removal before any action is taken.

Include Estimate

An estimate of the cost of such a plan will also be included in Alderman Carnot's report. The city council may assist financially in a feasible plan of removal, it was pointed out.

Alderman Jacob Lummerding sought some action on a resolution asking the Outagamie-co highway commission to repair County Trunk Q, southeast of the city. Several complaints on the condition of the road had already been received by the members of the council, and Alderman Lummerding was informed that Mayor Fargo had arranged an appointment to discuss the matter with the highway body.

Residents along the highway-st have been complaining of the increasing traffic of huge trucks along the street, according to Alderman William Gillen. This matter was referred to the chief of police who will restrict the truck traffic to streets over which the highways are routed, unless deliveries are being made.

A class A permit to operate a soft drink parlor was granted to Albert Haberhard. Haberhard will operate on Wisconsin-ave.

Name Grebe President
Of Dramatic League

Kaukauna — Elmer Grebe was named president of the Trinity Dramatic club of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church at a meeting of the club in the Lutheran school house Tuesday evening. He succeeds A. G. Jacobson as head of the organization. Other officers elected at Tuesday's meeting were Gordon Luckie, vice president; Norbert Lemke, business manager; Harold Hildebrandt, stage manager; Lester Luckie, manager of outside activities; William Nagel, sergeant-at-arms; and Irma Hildebrandt, secretary and treasurer.

Wet Grounds Prevents Playing of Soft Ball

Kaukauna — Wet grounds kept teams in the city softball league from playing scheduled games Tuesday evening. These games may be played Friday evening. Wednesday evening Bayshore's Butchers will meet Van's Suffels at Park school and Service Laundries will clash with Kalupa Bakers at the city playground. Thursday's games will complete the league schedule for the week, but postponed games may be played Friday evening.

Postal Receipts
Increased $600 in July, Report Shows

Kaukauna—An increase of approximately $400 was noted in receipts over the month of June at the postoffice, according to the report of A. R. Mill, postmaster, for the month of July. Receipts of June were $1,197.65 and in the month of July a total of $1,512.22 was received. This also is an increase of $422.47 over the receipts of July 1931. The increase in postage rates is the main reason for the increase the postmaster said. That the volume of mail has been increasing during the month was also reported by the postmaster.

Social Items

Kaukauna—The Ladies' Aid society, Immanuel Reformed church, will hold its annual picnic at La-Follette park Thursday afternoon. Members are to meet at the park at 2:30.

Sacred Heart Court No. 556 Catholic Order of Foresters will meet Wednesday evening in St. Mary annex. Routine business will be transacted.

Mrs. Otto Schubring entertained three tables at schafkopf at her home here Tuesday evening. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Arthur Demand, Mrs. George Schubring, and Mrs. Harry Treptow. Lunch was served. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. Arthur Demand and Mrs. Henry Gleisner of Appleton.

St. Anne's Court No. 226 Catholic Order of Foresters met Tuesday evening in the club rooms on Wisconsin-ave. Bridge was played following the business meeting and prizes were won by Mrs. Herman T. Runte and Mrs. Florian Mocco. The next meeting of the club will be held the first Tuesday in September.

The Business and Professional Woman's club will hold a picnic in the Tourist park next Monday evening. Members will meet at the park at 6 o'clock, and a business meeting will follow the picnic supper.

Shawano Will Meet
Kaws Next Sunday

Kaukauna—Shawano at Kaukauna will be the bill for next Sunday for the Electric city baseball nine. Shawano is a hard hitting ball club and has lost most of its games by close decisions although in some instances they had outthrew opponents. Kaukauna has had little trouble with the Indians so far this season and should take a victory Sunday. Kaukauna has a postponed game to play off with the Indians and arrangements may be made to play this along with Sunday's fracas.

Police Find No Trace
Of Garage Burglars

Kaukauna — No trace of either burglars or the loot they took when they entered the Van Lieshout garage Monday night had been found by police Wednesday. Using a key to enter the garage, the marauders took $17 in currency, a man's wristwatch valued at $40, a fountain pen, and a worthless check for $3. The small office safe was looted and the door of the safe was found ajar when the owner of the garage opened for business Tuesday morning. Police are still investigating.

North Side Rubbish
Collection Finished

Kaukauna—The monthly collection of rubbish was completed here Tuesday by workmen of the north road district. Thomas Reardon, road commissioner, directed the removal of the rubbish to the city dumping ground on E. Fourteenth-st. All of the places where rubbish had been dumped before have been closed and the street commissioner has asked that residents who dispose of rubbish during the month to take it to the new dumping ground.

Retaining Wall Being Constructed by Crew

Kaukauna — Workmen of the north road district have been busy for the past two weeks constructing a retaining wall adjacent to the sulphur spring near the fifth government lock. The grounds about the spring are being improved and the leaks in the side of the walls enclosing the spring are being repaired. With the completion of grading about the spring the plot will be seeded. The water from the spring is used by a large number of people living in that district.

Councilmen Guests
Of Kaukauna Legion

Kaukauna—Kaukauna Post No. 41 American Legion met in the club-rooms on Oak-st Tuesday evening. Members of the city council, that met earlier in the evening, were guests of the legionnaires. Discussion of plans for the state convention being held Aug. 14 to 17 inclusive, took place. Refreshments were served.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna—George R. Greenwood returned Tuesday from a several days' fishing trip at Red Banks. Lester Landeremuth, Austin Gilkey, Kenneth Roberts and Victor Van Drasek are spending a week camping at Lake Winnebago.

Entry Day Aug. 19
At Seymour Fair

Program to Open Second
Night With Grandstand
Show, Vaudeville Revue

BY W. F. WINSEY
Seymour—Entry day at the Seymour fair is Friday, Aug. 19 and the entertainment program opens Friday night with a show in front of the grandstand, featuring Robison Revue, according to George F. Fielder, fair secretary.

Other free attractions are the Curtis Animals, a dog and pony show; The Van De Velde Troupe; and The McDonald Trio.

The 120th Field Artillery band of 45 pieces has again been secured for this year for two days and two nights. The Seymour High School band has been engaged for both days, also.

As the fair has joined the Eastern Wisconsin Racing circuit an unusually large number of speedy horses will be entered in the track events Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Two games of baseball will be among the forenoon attractions. Seymour and the Valley team are scheduled for Saturday, and Seymour and Bonduel for Sunday morning.

Horse pulling contests are listed among the many attractions for Saturday and Sunday forenoons.

Cherry Processing
Will End This Week

BY W. F. WINSEY

Sturgeon Bay—The Fruit Growers' Union expects to finish the processing of cherries for this season at the close of this week, according to A. W. Lawrence, manager. The pack totaled six and one-fourth million pounds, Saturday, and is expected to reach seven and one-fourth million pounds the last of the week. The plant at Traverse City, Mich., expects to process nine million pounds. Last year the output of processed cherries at the local plant was nine and one-fourth million pounds. The casing by growers and picking by families in all the Door-co orchards is estimated at 14 million pounds. Three million pounds of cherries may be left on the trees. About four million pounds left the orchards fresh this season.

In some of the larger independent orchards near this city cherry picking was confined Monday for the most part to families who were picking for themselves.

While a large number of inquiries are coming in daily to the office of the Fruit Growers' Union, the market for processed cherries has not opened yet.

Door-co Livestock
Breeders to Picnic

Sturgeon Bay—The annual picnic of Livestock Breeders' association of Door-co. will be held at the Peninsular State park, Sunday, Aug. 7.

The speakers selected for the occasion are W. T. Everts, editor of the Capital Times and J. C. Nesbit of Head's Dairyman Baseball and other games and music will furnish entertainment.

The officers of the association are William H. Moore, president; and August Koepsel, secretary-treasurer. The directors are: Daniel O'Hern, Arnold Logerquist, Edward Ehlers, Charles Kroegmar, Charles F. Martins, Albert Carmody, and William Jasman.

The picnic is expected to draw a large crowd of farmers, and city and village people with their picnic baskets.

Yields Promising in Fields of Greenville

BY W. F. WINSEY

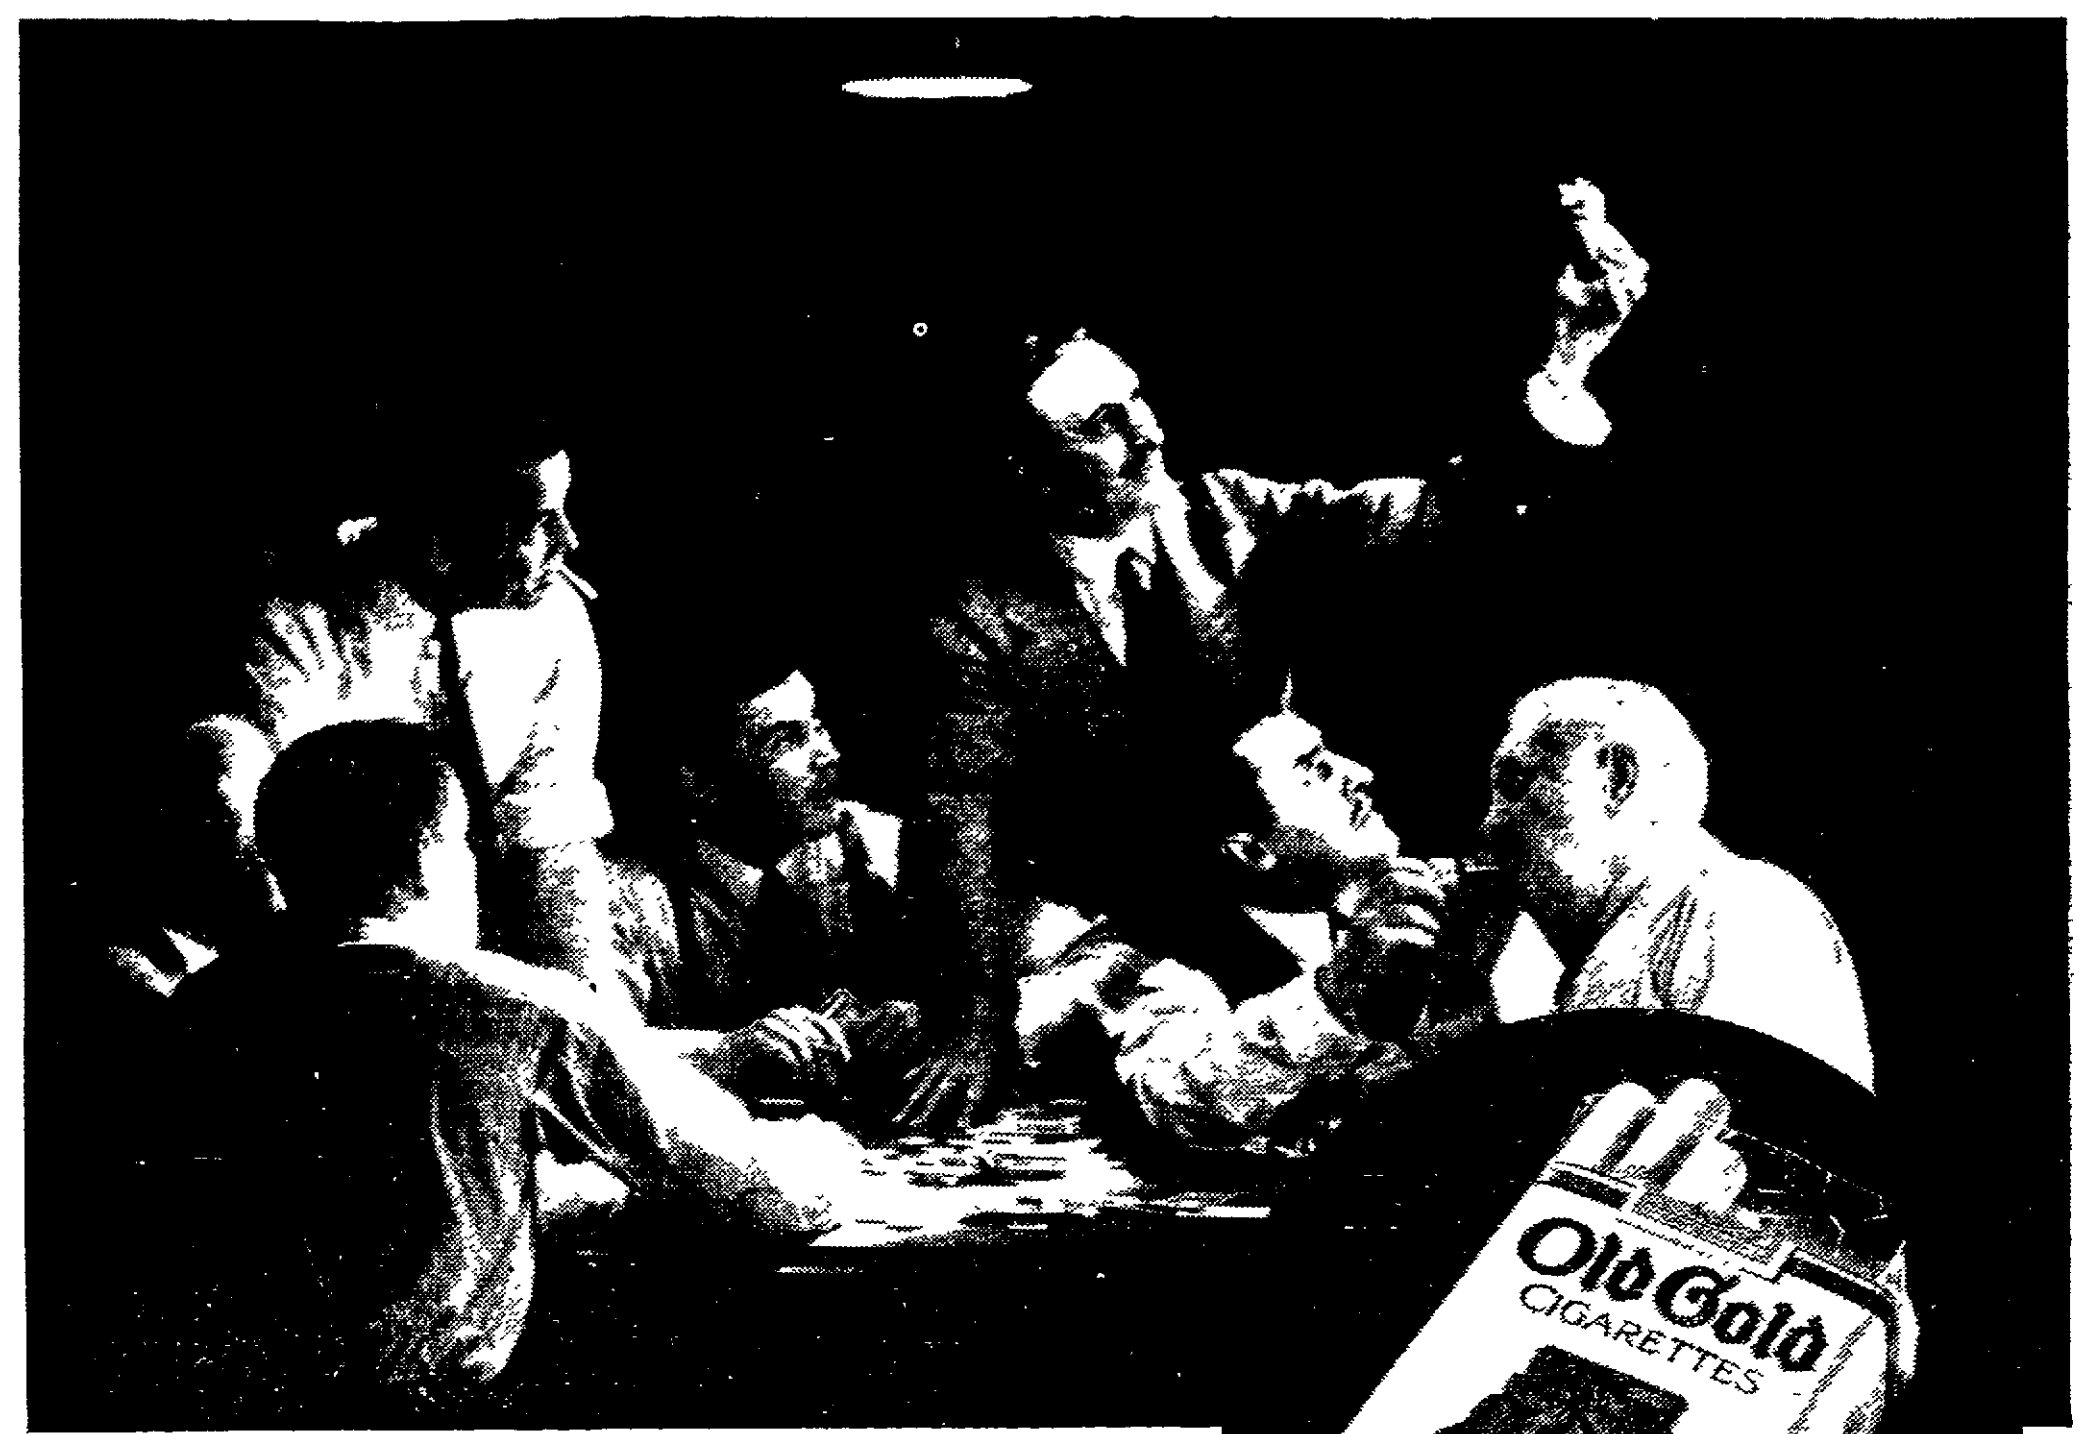

Greenville — Notwithstanding some cut worm injury and some early planting, cabbage is doing well in this vicinity, and promises an average yield. As butterflies and gray moths are working about in fields, the growers are on the lookout for cabbage worms and cabbage loop-ers. The butterfly is the parent of the cabbage worm and the grey moth of the cabbage looper, a few of the farmers explained. Bacteria Black Rot and Club Root that are worrying some of the growers in the Shiocott territory were not found in an inspection of a dozen or more Greenville fields, Friday. While there are no controls and only preventative Bacteria Black Rot and Club Root, the cabbage worm and cabbage looper is controlled by spraying.

This ends the argument!

75 SCIENTIFIC TESTS PROVE OLD GOLD
THE COOLEST, THROAT-EASIEST CIGARETTE

Next time you listen to an argument as to which is the best cigarette, you can chip in with something more than an opinion.

You won't have to say: "I think the tobacco in OLD GOLD is purer and finer." Instead, you can say: "I KNOW OLD GOLD is better; it's made of finest natural flavored tobacco. Science has proved it!"

As surely as Science can assay pure gold, so it can tell which cigarette is basically the choicest. It did that with 4 leading brands. It made 75 tests of 4 competing cigarettes . . . and found the smoke of an OLD

GOLD definitely cooler . . . indicating its superior tobacco quality and purity.

"Coolness" is the clue to cigarette quality. Only the finest and purest tobacco burns "cool." That's the tobacco in OLD GOLDS. The choicest Turkish and domestic leaf; free of heat-making flavorings.

Evidence, not adjectives. If you welcome this change in a cigarette advertisement . . . you'll welcome a change to pure-tobacco OLD GOLD.

NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

The Verdict of Science

This is to certify that in 75 repeated cool tests made of the 4 leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette in B. T. U./lb. with the Oxygen Bomb Calorimeter, it was shown that:

Old Gold averages 112 B.T.U.'s. Cooler than Brand X
Old Gold averages 155 B.T.U.'s. Cooler than Brand Y
Old Gold averages 156 B.T.U.'s. Cooler than Brand Z

Tests of the heat of the smoke showed Old Gold smoke definitely cooler than the other brands.
